'CHINA COULD BE BEHIND CYBER ATTACK ON AIIMS'

The ransomware attack suspected to have originated from China and Hong Kong, reports said on Wednesday

FIVE PHYSICAL SERVERS TARGETED

"The server attack is suspected to have originated from a location in China and a location in Hong Kong," an official source was quoted as saying by PTI. Of the 140 servers — 40 physical and 100 virtual — five physical servers were infiltrated. The targeted servers had personal data of about four crore patients, possibly including senior political leaders

Inflation under control, govt will bring it further down: FM

Sitharaman's strong rebuttal to Trinamool MP Mahua Moitra's 'Pappu' jibe, says look at your own backyard in West Bengal

MONIKA YADAV @New Delhi

A day after Trinamool MP Mahua Moitra taunted the Narendra Modi government with her 'Who is Pappu now' speech in Parliament, while referring to the state of the country's economy, Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Wednesday took the floor to defend the government on economy as well as to hit back at the Opposition MP.

Sitharaman said Moitra only needs to look at her own backyard to find the Pappu, saying West Bengal has not implemented many policies of the Centre, which would have benefited people of the state.

The FM, while responding to the debate on additional grant in the Lok Sabha, said that inflation has come down from its highs and is now within the tolerable band of the Reserve Bank of India. She claimed the government has taken steps to bring it further down.

"Consumer-price based inflation for November 2022 came down to 5.8%. It is difficult to understand when the Opposition raises concerns over inflation."

Taking a dig at the Opposition,

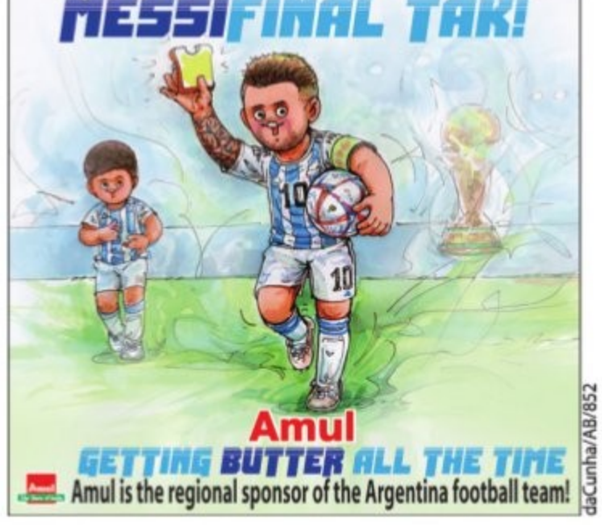
Sitharaman said that the inflation data in 2013, when the UPA was in power, was as high as 19.33%.

The minister also pointed out that wholesale inflation in November had come down to 5.85% — the lowest in the past 21 months versus 8.38% in October. "Food inflation is at 2.17% versus 6.48% month-on-month. So, inflation control is being done under the guidance of PM Narendra Modi," Sitharaman said.

Countering the attack on the government on the rupee's incessant fall, the FM said the Indian currency has strengthened against every currency including the dollar. "India has performed much better than many emerging economies. While Turkish Lira depreciated by 22%, Japanses Yen depreciated by 11.9%, South African Rand 15.1% and Chinese currency depreciated by 10.6% against the US dollar."

She continued: "The size of the rupee appreciation in April-November was 15.3% year-on-year against Japanese Yen, 7.6% compared to Sterling, and 7.5% with respect to Euro, as per RBI data."

Hitting out at the Opposition's question on whether the Centre is going soft on Nirav Modi, Sitharaman said the government is trying to get back the money he swindled during the UPA regime.



NO LANGUAGE BARRIER?

UG, PG students can answer same paper in English, Kannada

DONNA EVA @Bengaluru

IN a first in India to introduce dual-language answers for the same question paper in degree and postgraduate levels, students attempting these examinations in Karnataka will now be allowed to write their answers in English as well as Kannada while attempting a paper. This will be permitted for the forthcoming examinations in 2023 for the current academic year and onwards.

A decision to this effect was taken at the 23rd general meeting of the Karnataka State Higher Education Council (KSHEC) chaired by Karnataka Higher Education Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan.

Currently, students of degree or post-graduation courses have to choose prior to the examination as to which language the answer scripts will be written in. "But the new decision will allow students to write answers for a paper using both the languages. This means, some questions could be asked in Kannada and a few other questions could be answered in English, whichever a student feels is convenient," said the education minister.

Moreover, KSHEC Vice-Chairman, Prof B Thimmegowda also confirmed that even a single question can be answered using both the languages, which means mixing both languages while writing a single answer to a particular question. Explaining the decision, Prof Thimmegowda said, "The decision is being taken so that there is no language barrier for the students. While we are expecting that not a lot of students will make use of this, it is to give an opportunity for students from the rural areas to be understood while writing their examinations," he told TNIE.

The Department of Collegiate and Technical Education (DCTE) Commissioner Pradeep P had said last week that a majority of students attending government colleges come from socioeconomically poor backgrounds, and had problems with expressing themselves in English. On whether dual-language answers would pose problems in evaluation, the KSHEC chairman said, "Teachers are fluent in their respective languages and should not face any difficulties. We have noticed that Science and Commerce stream students are more comfortable with English, while Arts stream students are comfortable in Kannada. The teachers are familiar with the languages, and will be able to evaluate the answers." P6

Await SC order on border row: Shah to CMs

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR @Belagavi

AMID escalating tension between Karnataka and Maharashtra over the border dispute between them, Union Home Minister Amit Shah has put brakes on the claims being made by both the states by saying, "Until the Supreme Court pronounces its verdict on the vexed issue, none of the two states will stake claim on the disputed areas."

Soon after his meeting with Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and Maharashtra Chief Minister Eknath Shinde at his residence in New Delhi on Wednesday night, Shah directed both the sides to maintain status quo on the issue until the court issues its verdict.

"It was decided in the meeting that a committee of six ministers, three each from Karnataka and Maharashtra, will be formed to discuss the border dispute in detail and then decide on how to address the issue effectively. The team of six ministers will also help resolve several smaller issues which exist between any neighbouring states," said Shah.

Shah said both chief ministers agreed to form a committee in their respective states headed by a senior IPS officer to effectively deal with law and order issues.

He also blamed the social media for its alleged role in fanning sentiments of people.

FINAL CALL

Messi and his men keep date with destiny

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

WATCHING Lionel Messi has been a privilege for a very long time. His highlight reels on YouTube is a pain reliever on most days, like hot soup for tired mind and body. Even by his own ridiculous standards, Qatar 2022 is helping to reframe his legacy. At some level, the organisers needed a Messi-like figure to shift the focus from the politics and the scandals plaguing the event during the build-up. The 35-year-old genius has delivered.

He has delivered it not just by winding back the clock but by performing at a level befitting of Gods. In the process, he has also lifted Argentina — a country going through an economic crisis where inflation is expected to hit 100% by the end of the month — to a second World Cup final in three editions. What he's doing is not normal, like on Tuesday against Croatia. He has scored five goals but two of his biggest moments have been two assists — inlcuding the one against Croatia when he outfoxed young and promising defender Josko Gvardiol. At some level, this is all very poetic. Messi and his people didn't have the greatest of relationships for a long time — he had even been accused of not singing the national anthem — but something changed.

First, his leadership of the team. His teammates aren't just in awe of him but they clearly care for him and want to send him off with the World Cup.

Next, his relationship with the Argentine public. He delivered them the Copa title in 2021, their first senior trophy in 28 years. They saw what it meant to him.

That defeat against Saudi Arabia threatened to crush this facade. But the house that Messi & Co have built wasn't made of cards. It was made of dreams, hard work and years of trust. They are 90 minutes away from realising it.

Hebbal flyover revamp to restart

BMRCL gives nod to work stalled 3.8 years ago after BDA goes back to original plan

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THE revamp of the perennially jampacked Hebbal flyover by Bangalore Development Authority (BDA), which was stopped completely in April 2019, is finally set to restart. The Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) on Wednesday gave the BDA the green signal after it agreed to go back to its original plan of carrying out numerous infra works only on the first level of the flyover. It has given up its plans to build at the second level.

A top BDA official said two lanes will be built in the direction from the airport towards the city only on the first level apart from an underpass. "People entering the city from the airport, who face massive congestion at the Hebbal flyover presently as well as those coming from Yelahanka, Doddaballapur, Jakkur, Doddaballapur, Gauribidanur, Sahakar Nagar, Coffee Board Layout and surrounding areas will benefit from this."

BMRCL had made the BDA stop work in 2019 apprehensive of the new structures posing issues for its two separate Metro lines which would pass above and beyond the flyover. The State's High Powered Committee held two meetings this year (April 28 and September 12) with all agencies to break the deadlock over the issue.

TNIE has a copy of the order issued by BMRCL which states that the Phase-3 Metro on Outer Ring Road West up to Kempapura across Hebbal flyover and Phase-3A Metro from Sarjapur to Hebbal go beyond Hebbal flyover. "All the structures, including widening of the existing flyover and loops and ramps for different directions, should be provided only at Level-1, below or at the end of the existing flyover. The proposed underpass should be planned taking into consideration the alignment and piers of Phase-3 Metro," it stressed.

PJB Constructions Pvt Ltd was awarded the contract for Rs 80 crore and BDA had already released Rs 25 crore to it. "The foundation work for the project was completed before work was ordered to be stopped," explained another BDA source. "There will be some cost escalation due to the three-year gap and we will be paying that to the contractor. But work can start shortly," he added.

BBMP Commissioner Tushar Girinath checks voters' list at Govindaraja Nagar

BBMP chief checks voter list at doorsteps

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

BRUHAT Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) chief commissioner Tushar Girinath, who is also the district election officer, personally went door-to-door at Govindaraja Nagar assembly segment and checked the voters' list on Wednesday.

Coming in the wake of the voter data tampering controversy involving the NGO Chilume and some BBMP revenue officials at Shivajinagar, Chickpete and Mahadevpura, the exercise aims to restore faith in the Palike's election preparation process.

The commissioner approached residents and checked if their names were left out from the draft voter list, or if they were added wrongly, and other errors. He also collected information from the citizens.

Girinath later said booth level officers and supervisors were not involved in the revision of the voter list, and that he visited house to house to find out whether the revision of the voter list was correct. The commissioner was accompanied by Additional District Election Officer Jagdish Naik, Assistant Commissioner (Election) Umesh and other senior officials.

Meanwhile, Special Officer Ajay Nagabhushan, who held a meeting with representatives from political parties with regard to objections and claims regarding the voter draft list, was requested by them to extend the date of checking for a few more days. As per the State Election Commission, the date for claims and objections to Mahadevpura, Shivajinagar and Chickpet was extended till December 24.

Babu Gowda, Congress Block President of Marathalli, said, "As the exercise of checking for deleted names is a big task, we requested the officials to extend the date for claims and objections for a few more days here. The officials said they will talk to higher officials regarding the request as they don't have the powers to do so."

BBMP aims to get ₹300 cr from 20k tax violators

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

THE BBMP, with the help of Bengaluru Electricity Supply Company (Bescom), has traced 20,000 property owners who were paying lesser property tax by registering their properties as residential but generating income through commercial activities.

The Palike aims to earn Rs 300 crore as property tax from these violators once their properties are geo-tagged and details entered into the BBMP system.

BBMP, Special Commissioner, Finance, Jayaram Raipura, said the exercise was conducted in West, East and South zones. The violators had made false declarations under the Self-Assessment Scheme, misusing the facility and breaching the trust to avoid paying higher taxes.

"It took us several months to identify these property owners. We compared Bescom meter charges with SAS details submitted to the Palike to establish that the owners were cheating BBMP. Of the 20,000 property owners, notices have been sent to around 7,000 for revision of the tax amount," he said. The other properties too will be covered soon, he added.

To avoid being cheated by these violators again, the Palike is geo-tagging the property details, along with photographs, graphic representation and short videos which will be stored with the Palike and used to collect taxes every year.

Despite 1,200 people from the BBMP revenue department working on issuing notices, they have missed several deadlines. The commissioner attributed it to the staffers' additional commitments, including the election-related work.

"With elections round the corner, all are working on a war footing. Once the entire process is completed, BBMP can hope for Rs 300 crore revenue from these 20,000 commercial properties," he added.

School comes up with digital curriculum

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

WHILE the state education department is working towards implementing digital aspects of the National Education Policy in government schools, private schools and teachers are taking the opportunity to do their own research.

Teachers at Inventure Academy formulated their own Digital Citizenship Curriculum to ensure that their students use social media and technology conscientiously. "Identifying as a digital citizen is someone who uses the internet for their everyday lives. We tried to look at it from a point of view of what skills a digital citizen needs to maintain control of their life, like cyber security, communication skills and media literacy," said Ruchi Aggarwal, manager of the academy's Wider World initiative.

Aggarwal and Aaron Joseph of the academy's Maker Space, Design & Tech Studio were part of the team that designed the curriculum. The team, as well as two other teams, were a product of an eight-month certificate programme on entrepreneurship and innovation offered by the University of Pennsylvania's Graduate School of Education (GSE). The teams presented their capstone projects on Wednesday at a two-day Innovation and Entrepreneurship Conclave for School Leaders, organised by Inventure Academy, in partnership with GSE.

The team carried out a study for a semester on around 20 Grade 8 students, where they found that students were able to understand that there was a change in their personalities online after they were made aware of their online habits.

Pool money for b'days at govt schools, parents told

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

TO ensure unity in community and reduce costs, the state education department has suggested that parents of government school students pool money to celebrate birthdays at schools.

In a circular, the department emphasised community bonding in midday meals, specifically having schools provide meals during festivals and other community celebrations to students. The department has suggested that donations can come in the form of parents contributing to their children's birthday celebrations. The circular recommended that children can have a joint birthday celebrations to give students a sense of community.

Parents can team up to provide a special food programme for birthdays.

It also stipulated that it should be ensured that the food is both hygienic and nutritious. "The School Development and Monitoring Committees should prepare a suitable action plan and implement this. Parents can prepare and provide clean, tasty and nutritious food to all the children safely in the school's kitchen centre," it stated.

The circular also asked that community meals be provided to students as part of festivals and other celebrations for the children. "SDMCs should hold a meeting about preparing and distributing special meals for school-children during special functions conducted by the local community and discuss the quality of food distributed," the circular stated.

Pinakini bridge floods even after light rain

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

EVEN the light rain that Bengaluru witnessed in the last couple of days was enough to inundate the Dakshin Pinakini bridge, leaving people unable to cross.

According to locals, this was because the river has not been desilted. Even during the flooding in September, residents staying between Bengaluru and Koraluru village panchayats in Hoskote were left stranded.

Now, the areas under Mahadevapura zone in Kadugodi ward are also affected because of the overflowing river, residents rued.

Pratik Ghosh, a resident, pointed out that Dakshin Pinakini, which was almost a dead river, has woken up now and is flowing in full spate. "All the excess water from Kadugodi and Varthur flows into this river and downstream. But no desilting has been done. The Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) has placed excavators and vehicles to desilt it for the last two months, but nothing has been done," he said.

"Due to inaction of the BBMP to clear silt from the river, the bridge on Channasandra Main Road, is inundated. This place is less than 3 km from Hope Farm junction and 4 km from ITPL Main Road. The Palike has not been responding on ward groups also," said another resident.

BBMP officials from Mahadevapura Zone and the stormwater drain wing at the headoffice are blaming each other for this. While SWD engineers said the matter should be look at by the zonal engineers, the engineers contended that the SWD wing has all the man, machine and money, yet they failed to desilt the river.

15TH December : I was discussing astrology with some scientists recently. They had questions about whether astrology could be proved or not. The answer is not an easy one, because astrology deals in unique situations which cannot be repeated in a laboratory. Actually, many would say that astrology is closer to poetry than physics - and I'd agree with them.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The Moon's relationship with your sign is a strong signal that you will have to take very great care with all partnership and matrimonial matters. Partners are unlikely to be fobbed off with excuses, so you could be put on the spot - at last. Get your story ready!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You may well feel a little hurt or betrayed, but today's stars urge you to put the past behind you and get on with practical affairs. There is no point at all in raking over matters which are best left alone. Also, perhaps it's time to be kind and let someone else off the hook.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
A lively Moon is a pleasant presence in your chart. By reducing your general level of irritability, it could make you much more sympathetic to others, increasingly able to charm partners, and hence that much more successful. With friends on your side, a number of obstacles will soon disappear, as if by magic.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
In a strange and somewhat perverse way, you are probably enjoying this period. Mars' movement through intense regions of your chart brings out your latent conservatism, your feeling that many things are best left as they are. And maybe that's no bad thing.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Take all due care and attention with financial matters, especially because if anyone is going to lose money or be overcharged, it's you! You should also take a practical attitude to social arrangements, and ignore the frankly impossible.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Mercury, your planetary ruler, is beginning to make its lively presence felt, and a chance remark or encounter could give you the lever you need to force new items on to the agenda at home and at work. First, you have to stand back and give someone some extra space to sort themselves out. You know it makes sense!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Sensitive planetary activity brings out your confidence. In particular, it makes you increasingly sure of your ideas, and it gives you the necessary poetic skill to express yourself to good effect. That alone has to make the future worth waiting for.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Personal dynamics are increasingly complex, as you are only too well aware. Other people have only been able to put you down in the past because you have allowed them. Now it is definitely the right time to pay more attention to your own needs and aspirations and lead a full life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
The Moon is bound to get you thinking, and make you realise that physically, financially and emotionally, you need to redefine your centre of gravity. For now, all you should do is plan. Action can be left until later - even if sooner than you think!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
The Sun and Mars are now in a relationship which signifies a great deal of intensity on your part. You also seem to be suffering from an attack of doubt or a lack of confidence. The simple remedy is to get on with practical tasks until you succeed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Your emotional situation is looking ever more buoyant, but everything revolves around the choices you allow yourself to take. At the heart of all your feelings is the question of commit-ment, and the need to decide whether to go, or to stay - or to dither!

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Today's lunar alignments may grant you a temporary reprieve from difficult personal choices, and you may find respite in dealing with business matters, or just in going out to search for bargains. One piece of advice though - be sure to get value for money.

Extortion by cops: Citizens wary of staying out late

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE recent incident in Sampigehalli, in which two policemen of a Hoysala patrol vehicle had extorted a married couple for walking on the street at midnight, has raised questions among citizens, especially youngsters, whether is it safe to stay out late at night. While citizens fear encounters with robbers and thugs, the incident has now made them cautious of night beat policemen. However, senior police officials say steps have been taken to ensure that such incident are not repeated.

Shubham Shrivastava, marketing analyst and resident of Marathahalli, said that walking on the street at any hour should not be an issue in any city. "In case a couple is found in a compromising position, police can be justified in questioning them, but not for walking on the street at 12.30pm," he said, adding that many people (him included) have been stopped by police officers, their phones snatched and searched for keywords like weed or ganja, to find a reason to accuse them.

Deep Das, a software developer from HSR Layout, said he had been harassed by police on multiple occasions. "The recent incident shows how police abuse their power even when they have no legal right to this kind of harassment, and privacy breach in the name of keeping us safe. They shouldn't do it, couple or no couple. My work ends pretty late, so my partner and I usually get to roam around only at night. This behaviour by cops is not new, but I am scared to go out now. I'll have to be on the lookout for both cops and criminals." Bedapratim Sarma, a multimedia journalism student from Assam, feels that police target people from other states as they are "easy targets".

> Inspectors have been warned that disciplinary action will be taken against them if any such incident is reported in their jurisdiction — A Subramanyeswara Rao, Addl Commissioner of Police, Law & Order (East Division)

Additional Commissioner of Police, Law & Order (East Division) A Subramanyeswara Rao, however, said a stern warning has been issued, following the incident in Sampigehalli. "Inspectors have been warned that disciplinary action will be taken against them if any such incident is reported in their jurisdiction. Patrol staff have also been instructed about the consequences if they indulge in such behaviour." He also advised the public caught in such a situation to immediately contact the emergency number 112, or call the local police station or senior officers on their mobile phones, which are available in public domain. But what if police take away their phones? "Then they should insist on taking them to the nearest police station."

Two priests from Hyd robbed by 3 on highway

PRAVEEN KUMAR @ Bengaluru

TWO reputed priest-brothers from Hyderabad, who were heading to Bengaluru, were robbed of their valuables by three masked men on the Bengaluru-Hyderabad Road near Nandi Hills early on Tuesday morning. The brothers were taking a quick nap in their car on the side of National Highway 44, which connects Hyderabad and Bengaluru, when they were robbed.

The brothers, Shankar Datta and Murali Sharma from Vanasthalipuram in Hyderabad, were on their way to Bengaluru to conduct a wedding of an affluent family. As they had started late from Hyderabad and drove continuously, they decided to sleep for a while near Keerthi Dhaba on NH44 at Chadalapur Gate near Nandi Hills. As they dozed off, the three robbers came in a car, tapped the window of the parked car and woke up the brothers. Assuming that the criminals could be highway patrol police, the brothers lowered the glass. The accused then threatened them at knife point and robbed them of their gold chains, a branded watch and cash. The criminals later escaped. The incident occurred between 4.30 and 4.45 am on Tuesday. The victims then called the 112 emergency number and filed a police complaint.

"We come regularly to Bengaluru to conduct many functions. This is the first time that we experienced such an incident. Luckily, the masked robbers did not hurt us as we handed over all our valuables. After robbing us, they drove towards Hyderabad," Datta said.

CCB cops bust fake currency racket

BENGALURU: CCB sleuths on Tuesday raided a house in Horamavu Agara in Hennur, where fake US dollars and Indian rupees were being printed. The value of the seized counterfeit currency is over Rs 1.10 crore. Police said they were tipped off that two persons of African origin had taken a house on rent, where they were printing fake currency. "They were cheating the public by luring them with money doubling, original-fake currency swapping and American dollar investment offers," police said.

Conman held for online cheating

The accused posing as a prospective buyer would call the victims and visit their properties. After gaining their confidence, he would make them share information on their online banking along with passwords. After getting the bank details, he would transfer money into his account. Namma Clinics will offer specialty services to the poor, promises CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hubballi

WHILE virtually dedicating 114 'Namma Clinics', urban healthcare and wellness centres, to the public from Hubballi on Wednesday, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said services provided in these centres would be upgraded with additional funding to help people of poorer sections avail of the best emergency and primary treatments.

Stating that 437 'Namma Clinics' would be started by January-end, Bommai expressed concern over poor people's inability to get super special and emergency treatment as these services were too costly, especially in private hospitals. "Poverty should not come in the way of availing basic healthcare, so the government has decided to open Namma Clinics. The greatest challenge before the health sector and scientific world is to provide affordable healthcare service to the poor, using new technologies and medicines," the CM said.

Stating that the products and processes emerging from innovations should not be restricted to the rich, Bommai appealed to health experts, scientists and doctors to innovate on medicine and equipment, which should also be of use to the poor.

The state government has been taking adequate measures to fortify public health infrastructure by allocating funds and running several healthcare programmes, he said. "In selected 110 taluks, greater emphasis has been given to universal health, woman and child health in particular," he added.

Bommai said the government is engaged in upgrading taluk hospitals to 100-bed facilities and upgrading the existing 100 primary health centres to community health centres with 30 beds, and opening 47 new primary health centres in Kalyana Karnataka region. Daily dialysis cycles carried out by public health institutions have doubled to 60,000, 12 chemotherapy centres are functional for the poor, and 1,000 more Janaushadi Kendras will be added to the existing 1,250 centres, Bommai said.

Stating that the government would hold eye check-up camps in January for senior citizens and if necessary, provide free surgeries, the chief minister asked health officials to conduct checkups for every child to find out whether they are underweight, stunted or suffering from malnutrition and paediatric complications.

Ayushmati Clinics for women on the anvil: Dr Sudhakar

Health and Medical Education Minister Dr K Sudhakar said the government is planning to start Ayushmati Clinics, exclusively for women, by January next year. Taking part in the virtual launch of 114 Namma Clinics here on Wednesday, Sudhakar said that dedicating many healthcare units at one go was a record of sorts for any government, and a historic moment for the state's public healthcare service. The minister advocated a health checkup for every person over 30 years of age, to identify any health complication or find out whether they are suffering from any illness. Treating a disease at the primary level itself will help control it, he said, and added that Namma Clinics would be handy in catering to such needs. Stating that the state government has adopted several innovative ideas to provide affordable healthcare, Sudhakar said that from next month, medicine for the poor suffering from diabetes, blood pressure and tuberculosis, would be provided at their doorstep.

State govt moving at snail's pace on delimitation, says High Court

THE commission prayed for an extension of 90 days to complete the publication of the draft delimitation and submitting the final notification.

The court, however, said one may not find anything unreasonable in the prayer at first blush.

"But it reveals that the state government authorities are moving only at a snail's pace, when we perused the orders passed by the court time and again and look into the granting of six months which will expire on December 16, 2022," the court said.

The advocate general on September 23, 2022, assured the court that the state government was making efforts to complete the process of delimitation and reservation in 12 weeks.

Cabinet expansion may happen before Assembly elections

Bommai had told RSS leaders the need to include Ramesh Jarkiholi, Eshwarappa

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

"I have proposed the expansion of my cabinet, explained the need for it and sought time to discuss it as soon as possible," said Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai in New Delhi on Wednesday evening.

Soon after deliberations with Union Home Minister Amit Shah, Bommai said he is in favour of the cabinet expansion to fill six vacancies and it's necessary ahead of the 2023 Assembly polls. Asked whether it will happen before the winter session of the legislature commencing on December 19, he said Shah will give him time after holding talks with others concerned.

In a related development, RSS functionaries Dattatreya Hosabale and Mukund met Bommai recently and they spoke about preparations for the polls. Bommai told them about the importance of cabinet expansion and the need to include sulking Satish Jarkhiholi, CP Yogishwar and KS Eshwarappa.

Sources said former CM BS Yediyurappa too is insisting on taking Ramesh and Yogishwar back into the cabinet.

"The expansion of the Bommai cabinet ahead of 2023 Assembly polls is certain," a top BJP leader informed TNIE.

If all goes as per plan, Kudachi MLA P Rajiv, Kollegal MLA N Mahesh and Shorapur MLA Narasimha Nayaka alias Rajugouda are also likely to make it to the cabinet as they hold a sway over their communities -- Lambanis, SC Right and ST Nayaka.

Modi for Youth Day?

Bommai said Prime Minister Narendra Modi has been invited for the National Youth Day, marking Swami Vivekananda's birth anniversary. "Deliberations were held over getting more of Shah's and Modi's time for Karnataka. But the schedule of their visit is yet to be finalised," Bommai stated.

NOT AN INCH OF OUR LAND WILL BE GIVEN TO MAHA, SAYS SIDDARAMAIAH

BELAGAVI: The boundary dispute between Karnataka and Maharashtra is a closed chapter, asserted former Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Wednesday. "There is no question of giving up even an inch of Belagavi's land. There will be no compromise when it comes to Karnataka's land and no question of giving up Karnataka's land even if Home Minister Amit Shah or Prime Minister Narendra Modi insists on it," he said. Speaking at Hungund near Bagalkot, he termed CM Basavaraj Bommai a weak leader. On the meeting convened by Amit Shah between Bommai and his Maharashtra counterpart Eknath Shinde in New Delhi on Wednesday, he said that though there are BJP governments in the two states and at the Centre, saffron party leaders are instigating a dispute when there is none. Though the boundary dispute between the two states ended finally as per the recommendations of the Meherchand Mahajan Commission in 1962, the Maharashtra government rakes up the issue repeatedly for political gains, he alleged. On his choice of constituency to contest the 2023 Assembly elections, Siddaramaiah said he would run from wherever the party high asks him to. "I will contest from Badami if the high command wants me to or from Kolar. The party will take the final decision," he added.

CM slams Congress over Mahadayi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hubballi

COMMENTING on the Congress' plans to hold a convention on the Mahadayi issue, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Wednesday said that the Grand Old Party has no moral right to speak about the Mahadayi diversion project.

He said that the project was started because he had written a letter in 'blood', and a canal of 5.5 km in length was built during his tenure as the water resources minister.

Lashing at the Congress, he said, "What did the Congress do? The party supremo Sonia Gandhi announced during the election campaign in Goa, that not a drop of water will be diverted to other states. The Congress government built a wall to the canal constructed during the BJP regime. This shows how the Congress has become a stumbling block in bringing the Mahadayi water to Karnataka."

When inquired about the border row, Bommai said that a lot of reports had come before the reorganisation of states and an Act was later finalised. This is the present legal position. Maharashtra has questioned the resolutions of the States Reorganisation Act and the Supreme Court has not taken any decision yet.

21 sugar mills raided after plaints over cane weight

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

STATE Government officials on Wednesday raided 21 sugar factories in the state, following complaints that the factories were allegedly cheating cane growers by depreciating the weight of sugarcane supplied to them by farmers.

For the first time, the State Government conducted massive raids of this kind on sugar factories. Officials from the Departments of Sugar, Food and Civil Supplies, Consumer Affairs and the police jointly raided different locations across six districts. Senior officers coordinated the operation from Bengaluru.

Nirani Sugars Limited of Industries Minister Murugesh R Nirani is among the firms that were raided. The raids were conducted under the leadership of Shivanand H Kalakeri, Commissioner for Cane Development and Director of Sugar, on the directions from Minister for Textiles and Sugar, Shankar Patil Munenkoppa.

After receiving complaints that some sugar factories were cheating farmers by depreciating the weight, the minister directed officials to conduct raids, said a statement issued by the department.

A senior officer said they will examine details collected during the raids, and based on that information, will seek an explanation from the factories. The official said it was too early to say if any of the factors were involved in cheating farmers as that will be known only after a detailed examination of all the facts.

Raids on eight sugar factories in Belagavi, four in Bagalkot, four in Vijayapura, two in Bidar, two in Kalaburgi, and one sugar factory in Uttara Kannada districts started from 7 am.

Kurubur Shantha Kumar, president of Karnataka Sugar Cane Growers Association, said the raids were conducted after they complained about cheating. He claimed that if a farmer supplies 15 tonnes of sugarcane, they show it as 14 tonnes and cheat the farmer.

Farmers meet CM

Sugarcane growers, who are staging a protest for the last 23 days, met Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Wednesday. Kurubur Shantha Kumar said the chief minister assured them of that the rates would be increased, but did not specify how much will be the increase and when it will be implemented.

Shah urges Opposition not to politicise border issue

"SOME fake Twitter handles have been created in the names of noted leaders. We decided in the meeting to file FIRs against such accounts," Shah said.

Shah urged the opposition in both the states not to politicise the issue. He called upon the NCP and the Uddhav Thackeray faction of Shiv Sena to refrain from giving it a political colour.

He said discussions were held between leaders of both the states, including Home Minister Araga Jnanedra and Maharashtra DyCM Devendra Fadnavis.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said several aspects were discussed. He said he Shah was informed about the developments that took place in connection with the row over the past few decades.

Maharashtra CM Eknath Shinde said, "We had a good meeting and both states agreed to maintain law and order and ensure safety of people. We will cooperate with each other."

The outcome of the meeting has however come as an embarrassment for the Maharashtra Ekikaran Samiti (MES), which has been raising its popular pro-Maharashtra slogan "Bhalki, Bidar, Nipani, Khanapur and Karwar Maharashtra Jhalach Paije."

JDS leader HD Kumaraswamy meets BRS chief K Chandrashekar Rao and Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav in New Delhi on Wednesday | EXPRESS

HDK bonds with KCR at BRS office inaugural

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FORMER chief minister and JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy kept up his bonhomie with Telangana Chief Minister K Chandrashekar Rao, taking part in the opening of the Bharat Rashtra Samithi (BRS) office in Vasant Vihar in New Delhi on Wednesday. He participated in the rituals along with Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav.

Kumaraswamy's keen interest in BRS, according to sources, is an indication that he is keeping open an option to jump into national politics during the 2024 Lok Sabha polls, by delegating son Nikhil Kumaraswamy to look after state politics. "It all depends on the outcome of the 2023 assembly polls in Karnataka," the source said.

When KCR, chief of Telangana Rashtra Samithi (TRS), had launched his national outfit BRS in Hyderabad recently, Kumaraswamy had taken part in the event along with his party leaders. In the 2023 assembly polls, TRS will support the JDS in Karnataka, and in the 2024 parliamentary polls, BRS will field its candidates in select seats, including Kolar and Chikkaballapur in Old Mysuru region, and Hyderabad-Karnataka region, a JDS leader said.

Meanwhile, former prime minister H D Deve Gowda is also in the national capital as the winter session of Parliament is in progress. But father and son are expected to take part in the 'Srinivas Kalyanothsava' event slated to be held in Ramanagara on Friday.

Existing law sufficient to prevent love jihad: Araga

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chitradurga

HOME Minister Araga Jnanendra on Wednesday said, "The Karnataka Protection of Right to Freedom of Religion Bill, 2022, (popularly called the Anti-Conversion Bill) is sufficient to prevent 'love jihad' in the state and there is no need of enacting a new law or setting a separate task force."

Speaking to mediapersons in the city before addressing the passing-out parade at Police Training School, Aymangala, he said that there is a request from a section of society demanding that a task force be set up to prevent love jihad, however the present law is very stringent and covers all aspects of conversion, hence there is no need for a new law or task force. However, the government will look into the matter.

The demand for a task force and a stringent law was made by pro-Hindu organisations recently.

Further, he said that the Constitution provides opportunity for any individual to practise any religion that he/she wants, however, before the person starts practising, he/she has to go through a process of law, said the home minister.

The person who wants to change the religion should first submit an application on his interest in doing so, and the concerned officials will find whether the conversion is voluntary or forcible, after which permission will be granted, he explained.

He said there are complaints of large-scale conversions in Chitradurga district and other parts of Karnataka, because of which several religious heads urged for a law and it was enacted.

The home minister said any illegal religious conversions are identified, based on the complaint from blood relations, action will be initiated.

Translation to promote edu in regional languages

However, some experts were critical of the move. One, not wanting to be named, said the decision has come with just about three months to go for assembly elections and is being done with an eye on polls. "Bringing politics into education is not a good idea. Language barriers should not be created in education. The government is trying to appease all, but at the wrong time, without thinking of the repercussions. On one side, the government wants more students from Karnataka to compete in international exams, but on the other, it is lowering the standard of education and communication by doing this. The state government is also using NEP as a shield to implement such things, but it is actually picking and choosing," he said. Besides this, as per the aspiration of NEP-2020, to promote higher education in regional languages, the KSHEC meeting decided to undertake translation of qualitative books into Kannada. It was also decided to constitute a high-level committee to make use of technology in achieving this.

We should not be in a hurry to implement such a scheme. They should have a discussion before implementation on such schemes. The problem arises when such announcements are made without any discussions. All along, English has been given a preference, now a sudden switch will have an impact, which is not good. Proficiency of language, at what stage, when and if it is desirable should have been studied thoroughly before implementation.

Dr M R Doreswamy - former Advisor to State Government on Education Reforms

In letter and spirit, I say it is a welcome move and I welcome the decision. Allowing students to understand their concepts in the local language is important. However, this should not be limited only to Kannada. Karnataka has more regional languages, which should be given importance as well.

Dr V P Niranjanaradhya - Development Educationist

In my opinion, the candidate should not write the paper in two different languages, but the entire paper in one chosen language. For example, if the student starts to write in Kannada, this should continue all through in one language only.

G20 meet discusses global economy, crypto, climate

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE first G20 Finance and Central Bank Deputies meeting held in Bengaluru saw broad support on the proposed priorities of India's G20 Finance Track agenda for 2023, said Ajay Seth, secretary, Department of Economic Affairs.

The discussions on Wednesday focused on issues relating to the global economy and risks, strengthening Multilateral Development Banks, managing global debt vulnerabilities, financing climate action and Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and building resilient, inclusive and sustainable cities, he said.

These discussions will pave the way for the first G20 Finance Ministers and Central Bank Governors meeting, which will be held from February 23 to 25 next year in Bengaluru.

Seth told reporters that the event demonstrates global commitment to support India's G20 presidency, particularly amid a challenging global economic environment. He said the event reflected the theme of 'Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam – One Earth, One Family, One Future'.

Seth said they discussed global economic challenges, including inflation, food and energy insecurity and macroeconomic implications of climate change. They also discussed international financial architecture and cryptocurrency. Stressing on infrastructure, he said they discussed India's priorities for the Infrastructure Working Group 2023, including 'Financing Cities of Tomorrow: Inclusive, Resilient and Sustainable'.

Speaking on sustainable finance issues, Seth said they exchanged views on financing SDGs, including climate action, to facilitate development of a sustainable and resilient global economy.

"I am leaving the JDS with a heavy heart as it is inevitable for me to do so," the former MLA from Kadur in Chikkamagaluru said on Wednesday. Datta said he has decided to join the Grand Old Party after considering the views of his followers in the constituency. Datta held talks with former CM Siddaramaiah and KPCC president DK Shivakumar and he is yet to decide on the date of joining the party.

All is well between Bommai, BSY?

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WHILE BJP has often highlighted the alleged disunity and rivalry between Congress leaders Siddaramaiah and D K Shivakumar, a similar situation has now arisen in the saffron party unit in Karnataka. There is talk of differences between former chief minister B S Yediyurappa and his successor Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai.

On Wednesday, it was revealed that Yediyurappa was not attending the inauguration of BJP bhavans in Koppal on Thursday as he had not received a formal invitation. National party president JP Nadda is taking part in the big-ticket event, where Bommai too will be present. As media houses picked up the story and went to town about it, several party members rushed to Yediyurappa and pleaded with him to take part. Later in the evening, the former chief minister's office put out a note saying he is attending the function.

It is said that Yediyurappa skipped the Jan Sankalp Yatra in Kunigal and Tumakuru, though both leaders were expected to participate together. The other point of dissent reportedly came up when they went to Ahmedabad for the swearing-in ceremony of the Gujarat government. While Yediyurappa left a few days before Bommai, it was expected that the two leaders would return together. They did – Yediyurappa arrived in an ordinary aircraft, while Bommai flew in by a special flight, though there were two free seats available on the special flight. Both flights landed almost together.

Sources said all is not well between the two leaders and these incidents are tiny indications of it. Yet, BJP leaders were quick to jump up and defend the bond between them. Responding to the standoff, party unit Vice-President B Y Vijayendra told TNIE that there were no differences between the two leaders.

BJP national general secretary CT Ravi claimed that Yediyurappa had participated with Bommai at Jan Sankalp Yatra functions across the state. "Yediyurappa has a national responsibility and cannot be everywhere. He is one of the top leaders of our party. Bommai himself called Yediyurappa while returning from Ahmedabad, but Yediyurappa said he would meet a few more people and talk to them, and would be delayed. So the CM came alone by special flight. Yediyurappa has repeatedly said his aim is to win 150+ seats for the party," he said.

BJP spokesman Capt Ganesh Karnik too said the rift is imaginary, while the CM's political secretary and Honnali MLA MP Renukacharya said he has no information on it.

AP govt moves SC, seeks division of assets with TS

SHRUTI KAKKAR @NewDelhi

THE Andhra Pradesh government has approached the Supreme Court seeking division of assets and liabilities of the erstwhile State of AP between successor States of AP and Telangana, including institutions and corporations specified under Schedules – IX and X of the Andhra Pradesh Reorganisation Act, 2014.

Seeking equal division, AP has also sought for directing the State of Telangana to furnish details of all the properties (immovable and movable including funds) of the erstwhile State. It has also sought for directing the Telangana government to forthwith carry out all measures that are required to physically hand over to the State of Andhra Pradesh and the corporations their respective assets and liabilities and also appoint an impartial, neutral and independent arbitrator(s) or retired judge(s) of the SC to supervise and monitor the actual division.

The State has also sought for directing the Telangana government to pay compensation in the form of interest at the rate of 15 per cent per annum with effect from the appointed date of 02.06.2014 to the State of Andhra Pradesh/its corporations on the value of Andhra Pradesh's share of the apportioned assets.

Contending that the total value of fix assets which is to be divided of 245 institution corporations that have been specified in the schedules is about ₹1,42,601 crore, the AP government has argued that non-division of the assets is clearly to benefit Telangana as about 91 per cent of these assets are situated in Hyderabad, the capital of the erstwhile combined State, now in Telangana.

The AP government further stated that these institutions are an extension of the State and perform a range of basic and essential functions in fields as diverse as agriculture, dairy development, education, medical services, minority and backward class development, industrial development, infrastructure development and social security.

"The fact that their (those belonging to the said institutions) assets have not yet been bifurcated has seriously debilitated their functioning which has a direct and adverse impact on the people of Andhra Pradesh, who they are intended to serve," the plea said.

HC upholds conviction of Abhinaya in dowry case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

The Karnataka High Court confirmed the order of the trial court which convicted and sentenced actor Abhinaya, her brother Cheluvaraj and mother Jayamma to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of two years, a decade ago, for offences punishable under IPC Section 498A (subjecting a woman to cruelty). It also held Jayamma guilty of offences under Sections 3 and 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act.

Modifying the trial court order, the high court ruled that Jayamma shall undergo a minimum of five years' imprisonment under Section 3 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, as against the two-year sentence awarded by the trial court. All the sentences shall run concurrently, the court added.

Justice HB Prabhakara Sastry passed the order while partly allowing the appeal filed by complainant Lakshmidevi, and revision petition filed by the state government against their acquittal by the sessions court. The high court set aside the order passed by the sessions court acquitting Lakshmidevi's mother-in-law Jayamma, brother-in-law Cheluvaraj and sister-in-law Abhinaya.

"The sessions court pronounced an erroneous judgment of acquittal of the accused from all offences," said Justice Sastry.

In relation to the complaint filed by Lakshmidevi in 2002, the trial court had on January 5, 2010, convicted her husband Srinivas, father-in-law Ramakrishna, Jayamma, Cheluvaraj and Abhinaya. The accused had filed an appeal before the sessions court, which had acquitted all the five accused on March 3, 2012. Lakshmidevi challenged the acquittal order in the high court.

Truck knocks down elephant at BTR

Mysuru: A 20-year-old elephant was killed on the spot when a speeding truck mowed it down in Bandipur Tiger Reserve at the Kondaianapala Cross on Gundlupet-Kerala Highway (NH-766) on Tuesday night. The TN registration truck, which was travelling from Kerala towards Gundlupet, hit the elephant which was crossing the road in the night. As people in the other vehicles travelling on the stretch alerted the foresters, BTR director P Ramesh Kumar, ACF G Ravindra, RFO MB Mallesh rushed to the spot and conducted inspection. The foresters arrested truck driver Ayyappa Swamy and cleaner Anand Kumar, both residents of Coimbatore in Tamil Nadu, under various sections of the Wildlife Protection Act 1972 and produced them before the court which sent them to custody. They also seized the truck. On Wednesday, veterinarian Wasim Mirza conducted an autopsy of the elephant. The carcass was lifted using a crane and kept inside the forest area. Speaking to The New Indian Express, ACF G Ravindra said as per the court order, the carcass will not be buried but left for scavengers. ENS

YANGTSE INCURSION IS A PRECURSOR FOR MORE CHINESE LAC PUSHES

The December 9 border clash near Yangtse in Arunachal Pradesh's Tawang sector is not an ordinary skirmish. Given the details of what happened before dawn that day, it appears to be a premeditated operation by the Chinese, who apparently had drones in tow to record the ensuing clash. The incident comes days before the next round of talks to defuse the standoff between the two countries in Ladakh.

On the face of it, why the Chinese chose this particular spot is not difficult to explain. For the Chinese, it is a strategic area. They have eyed it since the standoff in 1986. Once the Chinese get control of Yangtse, they can eye Se La or Sela Pass and easily cut off Indian positions in Bum La and Tawang. Once they control Yangtse, the Indian threat to their Li Camp subsides. The camp houses a battalion of the People's Liberation Army. Seen in this light, the latest clash is by no means a minor one. It did not turn into a major fight but was defused locally because the Indian side took effective countermeasures immediately. They mobilised numbers in no time, forcing the Chinese to rethink their objectives if any. The sudden incursion can be explained as the Chinese way of testing Indian troop alertness, especially in severe winters. The Chinese may also be hinting that they will not stop with Ladakh and intervene at any of the myriad border points along the Line of Actual Control. During the next round of border talks, they may leverage one incursion against the other.

The incident could also have been prompted by the communist leadership's dislike of the India-US Yudh Abhyas in Auli, Uttarakhand, close to the LAC. The presence of American troops so close to the border would not have been tolerable to the Chinese. They protested the joint exercise saying it was a "third-country interference in Sino-Indian relations". The Americans, closely watching the situation, pointed out that the Chinese were amassing forces and "building military infrastructure along the so-called LAC". The Pentagon went a step further, saying it sees a growing trend by China to be proactive in areas belonging to US allies and partners in the Indo-Pacific. Needless to say, the incursion leaves a message that Indian alertness cannot slacken at the border in the long winter and worse, India can expect incursions anywhere right up to Sikkim anytime.

COLOUR IS COMMUNAL IN POLL-BOUND K'TAKA

The wall of the Kalaburagi Railway Station in north Karnataka has got a fresh coat of white paint, not because it was needed, but because a bunch of activists found the green wall "objectionable" and threatened to paint it saffron. The Railways decided to sidestep any controversy and painted it white. The row may have played out in an insignificant corner of the state. But it is a pointer to the increasing incidence of 'colour politics' seeping into the body politic, and is reminiscent of the Haj House wall painted saffron in Uttar Pradesh. The politics of colour has become the new assertion of identity, with connotations of a certain culture and community.

The wall row came almost on the heels of the bus shelter 'dome' controversy on the Ooty-Nanjangud highway in Mysuru district last month. Local BJP MP Pratap Simha had declared the three domes atop a bus shelter "Islamic" and "mosque-like" and vowed to demolish it. His objections to the architecture were fuelled by an underlying fear that the shelter could be used as an impromptu mosque. Defending the domed structure was party colleague and BJP MLA of the constituency, S A Ramadas, who argued that the shelter was in sync with the heritage look of Mysuru city and its famed Mysuru Palace. Incidentally, Mysuru Palace is in the Indo-Saracenic style with a touch of Rajput and Mughal architecture. The row between the two leaders over street furniture amused the state and would have been comical if not for its regrettable communal angle. The NHAI also pitched in and ordered its demolition, and it was finally sorted out quite amicably—two domes were demolished, and the biggest dome and the kalashas were left intact so that neither leader lost face.

Such banal controversies are only expected to increase in a state where assembly elections are due in a few months and where leaders hope to stay relevant by keeping the communal cauldron boiling. Since 2019, Karnataka's image of an open, progressive state has taken a beating, with over 160 cases of communal violence reported from Shivamogga, Dakshina Kannada, Gadag and Bagalkot districts. Ruling party leaders have raised a string of controversies, like the hijab ban, halal boycott, non-Hindu economic boycott, saffronisation of textbooks and much more, in an attempt to adopt Yogi Adityanath's rather successful playbook in Uttar Pradesh. Whether it delivers electoral dividends will be evident a few months from now.

QUICK TAKE

EXPOSE BHIMA KOREGAON HACKERS

An American digital forensics company claims hackers compromised the computer of a Bhima Koregaon case accused, Father Stan Swamy, days before the police seized it. The hackers planted documents incriminating him before clearing their tracks. The company last year made a similar claim about another accused, Rona Wilson. India must get to the bottom of this, coming as it does on the heels of the AIIMS cyberattack. The oversight committee on US cyber security must be asked to help identify the hackers' origin. Ironically, this coincides with India pitching at a G20 meet to use data for the "public good".

Poor information and surveillance systems as well as low priority for public health research in oral diseases are impediments to delivering oral health programmes

ORAL HEALTH AWARENESS IS NEED OF HOUR

DR K SRINATH REDDY

Cardiologist, epidemiologist and Distinguished Professor of Public Health, PHFI

SOURAV ROY

For long, oral health was viewed as a personal matter. It was left to individuals to take care of their teeth, gums, tongue and cheeks. Never mind if sugar-rich beverages and ultra-processed foods damage your teeth or tobacco and alcohol cause oral cancer. Only the manufacturers of toothpaste and powders, mouth rinses and breath fresheners conveyed their concerns about your mouth through their commercial advertising. Oral health was not perceived as a public health problem unless it came to the obnoxious habit of spitting in public places. Oral health was a minor figure in the pantheon of non-communicable diseases (NCDs). Many health systems did not provide or pay for oral health services as part of the package provided under universal health coverage (UHC).

Now, the World Health Organisation (WHO) has called for an organised health system response to the huge challenge that oral health disorders pose worldwide. On November 18, 2022, it released the Global Oral Health Status Report, which calls for universal health coverage of oral health by 2030. The report also profiles the status of oral health in 194 WHO member states.

WHO reports that 3.5 billion persons (45% of the global population) suffer from oral diseases. Three-quarters of them live in low- and middle-income countries. The report highlights glaring inequalities in access to oral health services. It points out that individuals from low-income families, persons with disabilities, elderly persons, those living in rural or remote communities and minority groups often find it difficult to access oral health services.

The report identifies barriers to access and affordability of needed services. In the absence of assured coverage under UHC, high out-of-pocket expenditures impose unaffordable financial burdens on families and communities. The provided services are often unavailable at the primary care level. Lack of preventive services and the absence of oral health education to the public frequently lead to advanced disease. Technology-intensive care, which is then prescribed and delivered by specialists, carries a high cost. Poor information and surveillance systems as well as low priority for public health research in oral diseases are impediments to developing and delivering oral health policies and programmes.

Dental caries, involving tooth decay, is the most common oral health disorder. According to a WHO estimate, untreated dental caries affects 2.5 billion persons globally. Severe gum diseases, which cause tooth loss, affect one billion people. It is also estimated that about 380,000 oral cancer cases are detected annually. India is a major contributor to these disorders, with oral tobacco consumption making it the leader in oral cancer.

Poor oral health conditions, especially inflamed gums (gingivitis), are now a recognised risk factor for heart and blood vessel disease. Chronically inflamed gums stoke inflammation elsewhere in the body, leading to the formation and rupture of plaques in blood vessels, triggering heart attacks and strokes. Infected gums release bacteria into the bloodstream, destroying the heart's valves (infective endocarditis). Children and elderly persons with poor dentition are especially likely to have difficulty in eating, resulting in nutritional deficiencies. Frequent consumption of analgesics and antibiotics for oral health disorders can also damage health.

Neglect of oral health seriously affects individuals, families, communities and countries. National oral health policies which emphasise on all aspects of oral health, from health promotion and disease prevention to timely and effective treatment are needed.

India recently initiated a National Oral Health Programme with the following objectives: (1) to improve the determinants of oral health; (2) to reduce morbidity from oral diseases; (3) to integrate oral health promotion and preventive services with the general healthcare system and (4) promotion of public-private partnerships (PPP) model for achieving better oral health. The National Health Mission will steer this programme.

Primary care is especially pivotal for delivering a wide range of oral health services to the community. Dental hygienists can play a useful role when dental doctors are not available. In 2000, Brazil incorporated oral healthcare providers into the Family Health Teams. These teams, which had been created to deliver a wide array of health services at home or near home, now cover the vast majority of municipalities in Brazil. They have had a transformational impact on delivering primary care. Oral health is promoted under the 'Smiling Brazil' programme. The Ayushman Bharat programme of comprehensive primary care must deliver oral health services effectively at Health and Wellness Centres. They must be free of cost for the patient or family.

When more advanced care is needed, access should become easy in sub-divisional, district and medical college hospitals. Telehealth programmes can link primary care to advanced care centres for diagnosis, counselling, guided care and follow-up. Cost coverage for hospitalised care must be provided under the Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana (PMJAY).

Awareness of oral health must be promoted in schools, at the workplace, and community settings besides healthcare facilities. Healthy nutrition is vital for oral health, just as healthy teeth and gums are necessary for eating well. The growth and vitality of teeth depend on nutrients like minerals, proteins, vitamins and fibre in the diet. Agriculture and food policies must ensure appropriate nutrition at affordable prices.

The need for balanced nutrition for promoting and protecting gum health was vividly demonstrated when seafaring British sailors were rid of the dreaded scurvy by James Lind, who introduced lemon in their diets. Using the right materials and methods for brushing should become common knowledge.

However, in modern times, much of the danger comes from commercial drivers of unhealthy products. Sugar-rich beverages and ultra-processed foods damage the teeth. They destroy health-guarding bacteria in our mouth (the microbiome) and promote the growth of pathogenic bacteria (causing dysbiosis). Tobacco damages the teeth and gums while provoking changes which lead to oral cancer. Alcohol, too, weakens the gums. It stimulates the salivary glands, whose excess secretions damage the teeth. It also contributes to oral cancer.

Yet, tobacco and unhealthy food products are aggressively promoted and extensively marketed. Our regulatory systems need stronger teeth to curtail such products if our tongues are to savour the taste of good health throughout the course of life.

REVERT ETHICS TO PUBLIC SPHERE

SHIV VISVANATHAN

Social scientist associated with THE COMPOST HEAP, a group researching alternative imaginations

Sometimes, a move towards reform or radical demands stems from the absence of a world or the lack of an experience. Listening to the media or watching the public world of pedagogy or politics, one senses an absence of ethics. Ethics provides a different texture to these conversations and a different framework of expectations. It textures the world in a different way, adding the music of value to it. The glaring absence of ethics has become one of the stark facts of life today.

One is not invoking it merely out of nostalgia, though nostalgia as an emotion combines ethics and aesthetics. Ethics summons the storyteller in a different way and structures the demands of the narrative. It adds a different quality to the level of performativity as the exemplar invites imitation. Ethics adds poetics to the value-neutral world. The world of language creates a glossary of different expectations.

One sensed this often during the National Movement, where character-building and nation-building were coterminous activities. During the National Movement, our ideas of science often evolved as autobiographies. Science, in that sense, was not an abstract exercise, but a lived world, as Gandhi's The Story of My Experiments with Truth or Prafulla Chandra Ray's Life and Experiences of a Bengali Chemist proved. Character-building was the answer to corruption as exemplars showed the right way of following paradigms. This era invoked not just an epic battle between good and evil but saw the power and creativity of goodness creating the music of a more virtuous world. Somehow, with independence, goodness and ethics were devalued as one opted for the managerial worlds of development and planning. Sadly, even exercises on spirituality got reduced to management as the spiritual lost its sense of ethical metaphysics to become a mere set of techniques that emphasises on control rather than self-control. Goodness became a form of correctness, an etiquette rather than a self-conscious muscular set of moral choices. Even in Bollywood, as a myth, the good father or the good teacher disappeared before the cinematic interval because it was felt that goodness lacked the efficacy to fight evil. I remember a famous psychologist once saying: "Don't dump good people on me, they are so boring."

The absence of ethics is felt in numerous ways. One sees it first in the everydayness of politics where power becomes a mere bundle of choices, calculations and strategies which emphasise on the neutral and the instrumental. A politician like the Czech leader Václav Havel or a resistor like Desmond Tutu is seen as an aberration. The world seems hapless with the Modis, the Trumps, the Putins, and the Erdogan, claiming they are more like the ethical individuals who are considered a rare and disappearing species. In fact, dissenting ethicists like Sudha Bharadwaj or Stan Swamy are seen as pathological and labelled "Urban Naxals". The illiteracy of the label is rarely questioned.

> Ethics is no longer considered a majoritarian idea but a marginal construct belonging to the defeated. When goodness becomes an embarrassment, it is time citizens wake up

The nature of language itself has changed because ethics as a guiding force is lost. Worlds become more tactical, strategic, and managerial. One sees this today in the way we use words like 'security' or 'sustainability'. They are creatures of calculation rather than an appeal to sacrifice, trusteeship and martyrdom. In fact, ethics is no longer considered a majoritarian idea but a marginal construct belonging to the defeated. When goodness becomes an embarrassment, it is time citizens wake up. Mere protest or rhetoric is inadequate; one needs a new set of experiments, interpretations and even a return to storytelling.

One has to begin with the simplicity, the poetic power of everyday pedagogy. The child has to learn that ethics is a drama he or she enacts and internalises every day. One of the great textbooks the Jesuits as pedagogues invented was the moral science textbook, with its medley of debates, anecdotes, and questions. It left issues open. One had to talk, debate and consult parents to find the answer. Ethics acquired a sense of conversation, of moral adventure and exploration. Reading these debates, one acquired the language and feel of ethics as a sense of craftsmanship. Epics, myths, and parables added to the corpus of knowledge, creating a diversity of perspectives open to experimentation and pedagogy. The child in that sense literally grew up as a moral scientist, searching for the right without yielding to righteousness. As adult professionals and citizens, we need to discuss ethics. The poor debates on security issues like AFSPA, or the ethical illiteracy of biotechnology where the genetically modified mustard issue is reduced to productivity is obvious. Topics like nuclear energy can no longer be left to experts, and issues like incest can no longer be erased through silence. Ethics cannot be subject to benign neglect. It needs the exemplar, the public presence of debate. The search for the answer rather than a sense of certainty is a crucial part of the rituals of ethics.

Issues like peace and the idea of the Anthropocene have to be opened to citizens. Ordinary language should have the power to articulate issues. Ideas like violence, defence and genocide should be questions we should confront in an everyday sense because ethics and memory weave to create character. Myth becomes an important part of life and no society should be devoid of legends and literary classics. There is relevance and an excitement to them that one has to capture. There is a sadness that we boast of the information revolution and the knowledge society without ethics. Ethics is one illiteracy that democracy must focus on now. There is an immediacy to this that demands ethical issues like Kudankulam, AFSPA, Covid, riots, etc. become a part of the democratic imagination. Only ethics can rescue democracy from majoritarianism.

The challenge is exciting and inventive, and is an invitation to a different world where drama and everydayness create a different world. Goodness is at times difficult to resist.

Fr Swamy and human rights

Apropos of US lab says evidence planted on Stan Swamy's computer (Dec 14). Hearing such news is terrible. We frequently hear about how the underprivileged are being uplifted to bring about a change in our nation. He was changing lives for these classes by doing good for them. We must uphold the human rights of every citizen.

India's dance with democracy

The fact that a hacker entered Swamy's system and hid evidence is alarming. This reveals an intentionally cruel act committed against an activist. It hurts that even the legal system overlooked the protection of Swamy's human rights by denying his request for bail. Is India truly a democratic country?

Families must be progressive

Apropos of It's time families open up about sex (Dec 14). I agree with CJI Chandrachud. In this day and age, families need to talk openly about sex. If families educate their young ones, the next generation will be a mature lot. Teenagers and young people should learn about the real meaning and importance of sexual relations from their families, not through the internet.

Didi in Shillong

Apropos of Didi in Shillong: TMC is an all-India party (Dec 14). I appreciate Mamata Banerjee's statements in Shillong as well as the criticism of the BJP government. The equality and rights of all Indians must be understood. The Indian Constitution states that there is no divide among us.

First trans postwoman

Apropos of Parvathy shatters norms, becomes Kerala's first transgender postwoman (Dec 14). I really commend Parvathy for her valiant efforts to retain her individuality. She became a role model for other transgender people, encouraging them to embrace their identities and confront social injustices.

As a regular reader and well wisher of The New Indian Express, I have a special admiration for bold columnists. Forthright in his comments, National RedInk awardee T J S George never indulged in any kind of circumlocution to escape the wrath of opponents. His candid and lucid style is worth emulating for upcoming journalists.

Modi lauds BJP efforts as party savours Guj win

BJP Parliamentary Party meet discussed strategy to counter Oppn

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

PM Modi with Amit Shah, Rajnath Singh and party president JP Nadda at BJP Parliamentary Party meeting in New Delhi on Wednesday | SHEKHAR YADAV

UPBEAT after the BJP's performance in the Gujarat Assembly polls, its parliamentary party meeting on Wednesday was a picture of jubilation and bonhomie as leaders felicitated Prime Minister Narendra Modi for the win.

The meeting was held at the Parliament conference hall before the commencement of the House session. Besides Modi, it was attended by BJP's national president JP Nadda, Home Minister Amit Shah, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh and other members of Parliament. Sources in the BJP said Modi, visibly overwhelmed with the recent win in the Gujarat and the emotionally-surcharged welcome extended to him at the meeting, lauded the work of the state unit of party, especially its state president CR Patil and others for the record victory.

According to sources, the BJP leaders also discussed strategies to corner the Opposition in the House over various issues, including the recent standoff at the LAC. Modi reiterated the party's commitment to work for the poor and make India a self-reliant and developed nation by 2047. Party sources added that the PM said the Gujarat unit of the BJP is an example of how victory in elections is possible if the party organisation is strong. He also praised Nadda and other leaders, including Shah, for their coordinated efforts for the Gujarat and Himachal Pradesh elections. The PM also spoke about India's G-20 presidency, and asked the party MPs to come up with innovative ideas to involve people in organising various events across the country in the run-up to the summit meeting next year. At the meeting, Union Railway and IT Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw made a presentation on the Indian economy, citing how India is becoming a bright spot among the top seven economies.

Rahul, Shekhawat spat over central fund

THE Eastern Rajasthan Canal Project has once again raised political temperature in Rajasthan, with the Congress and the central government engaging in a war of words over the ambitious Rs 40,000 crore project that aims to provide water to 13 districts of the state.

During his Bharat Jodo Yatra on Tuesday, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi attacked the central government for not approving ERCP as a national project. On the same day, Union Jal Shakti Minister GS Shekhawat laid down certain terms on which the Centre would agree.

However, Congress general secretary Jairam Ramesh and Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot on Wednesday slammed the Centre's offer, saying that despite the promise made by Prime Minister Narendra Modi in 2019, his government is doing nothing but misleading the people. Shekhawat had put the ball in the state's court on the ERCP, which has been a bone of contention between the Gehlot government and the Centre.

The Rajasthan government wants 3,500 million cubic metre of water from Kunnu, Parvati, Kalisindh on 50% diversion. But the Madhya Pradesh government is ready to give only 1,700 million cubic metres of water to Rajasthan on 75% diversion, citing the points of meeting of the Interstate Control Board. Instead of ERCP, the Special Committee meet on Interlinking of Rivers has approved the proposal for integration of Kalisindh-Chambal Link Canal Project with ERCP.

A decision in this regard was taken in the 20th meeting of SCILR held in Delhi on Tuesday under the chairmanship of Shekhawat. Later Shekhawat stated that if the Rajasthan government agrees on 75% diversion, then the Centre is ready to give 90-10 funding.

Instead of ERCP, the central government seems to be working on a plan to connect rivers through the Task Force of Interlinking of River. Under this scheme, Rajasthan and Madhya Pradesh have been included in the top five priorities for providing water. This project is said to cost half of ERCP. However, hitting back at Shekhawat's statement, Gehlot said, "It is apparent that the central government has failed. That's why Shekhawat has again started chanting the old tune. When Rahul Gandhi mentioned ERCP, the BJP got scared thatthey may lose all the seats. That's why I say that you make ERCP a national project."

RAGHURAM RAJAN JOINS RAHUL'S YATRA

Former RBI governor Raghuram Rajan joined Rahul Gandhi in the Bharat Jodo Yatra on Wednesday morning. Rajan walked nearly 10 km along with Rahul Gandhi in Rajasthan's Sawai Madhopur district and the duo had a long discussion on the state of India's economy. The conversation between Rahul and Rajan lasted for more than half an hour. Later in the day, Rahul Gandhi remarked that "100 capitalists of the country have as much money as half of India's population. Narendra Modi also works on their instructions. Modi does what they say. That's why GST was wrongly implemented."

Char Dham project missed deadline due to litigations, says govt

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

THE Char Dham expressway project has missed its 2022 deadline. Litigations related to forest and environment clearance have hampered the Centre's ambitious all weather road for Char Dham yatra, launched in December 2016. According to the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways (MORTH), out of 53 civil works covering the entire length of 889 km in Uttarakhand, 43 packages with a total length of 683 km sanctioned so far.

While responding to queries in Rajya Sabha about the project, which aims to improve connectivity to four noted religious sites - Badrinath, Kedarnath, Yamunotri and Gangotri, the Minister of MORTH Nitin Gadkari informed the House that 21 packages covering a length of 291 km are complete and two packages are yet to be awarded. One package was desanctioned and remaining 19 packages covering a length of 366km are in different stages of progress, the minister added.

Gadkari further stated that the sanction and completion of remaining work depends on finalisation of Detailed Project Reports (DPRs) and execution as per the instructions of two committees, which were set up following the directions of the Supreme Court.

The project is being reviewed and monitored by a high powered committee for non-strategic roads (Rudrarprayag – Gaurikund and Dharasu Bend – Jankichatti) and an oversight committee for strategic roads (Rishikesh – Mana, Rishikesh – Gangotri and Tanakpur – Pithoragarh) constituted as per the direction of Supreme Court. "This project was originally scheduled for completion by March 2022. However, the programme was delayed mainly due to litigation related to forest and environment clearance in various courts of law," Gadkari's reply read. The project has been facing hurdles since the beginning due to pending forest and environmental permissions and Covid-19 pandemic.

Oppn unity in House as TMC, BRS, AAP join Cong in walkout

Opposition parties staging a walkout in Parliament on Wednesday | PTI

IN a rare display of unity, 18 Opposition parties came together to corner the government on the recent India-China face off along the Line of Actual Control (LAC) in the Parliament on Wednesday. Sinking the differences, the Opposition parties including Aam Aadmi Party (AAP), Trinamool Congress (TMC) and the Bharat Rashtra Samithi (BRS) staged a walkout in the Parliament on the issue of Chinese aggression on the LAC in Arunachal Pradesh.

The Opposition parties that attended the meetings include CPI, CPM, RJD, JDU, SP, RLD, NCP and Shiv Sena (Uddhav Thackeray faction), and National Conference, among others. While Congress leaders Sonia Gandhi and Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury led the walk out in the Lok Sabha, in the Rajya Sabha, Kharge took the lead in protest of disallowing a discussion on the tension along the border. The winter session will conclude on December 29th.

WINTER SESSION

The parties also attended a meeting chaired by Congress president and Rajya Sabha Opposition leader Mallikarjun Kharge on Wednesday. The meeting was called to discuss the strategies to be adopted in the Parliament to attack the government on the flare-up on the India-China border.

Speaking to this newspaper, Congress chief whip in the Lok Sabha Kodikunnil Suresh said that the Opposition parties have unanimously decided to keep the issue alive and persuade the government to hold a discussion in the Parliament.

"We have decided to continue the protest till the government agrees to discuss the issue. All the parties are on the same page as it concerns national security," he said. This is the second time during this winter session that all the Opposition parties including AAP and TMC have come together in attacking the BJP government on various issues. In the past, AAP and TMC have stayed away from the meetings called by Opposition parties. It is not a secret that AAP, TMC and BRS harbor national ambitions and are unwilling to join hands with the Congress in forming an anti-BJP front at the national level. Incidentally, the Congress and BRS are at loggerheads after the Hyderabad police on Tuesday conducted a raid at Telangana Pradesh Congress Committee strategist Sunil Kanugolu's office and arrested three people for allegedly posting derogatory comments against CM K Chandrashekar Rao.

BILL TO RENAME ARBITRATION CENTRE PASSED

The RS passed the New Delhi International Arbitration Centre (Amendment) Bill, 2022, which was piloted by Union Law Minister Kiren Rijiju in the house on Wednesday. It seeks to rename the New Delhi International Arbitration Centre as the India International Arbitration Centre. The Lok Sabha had already passed the bill on August 2022, which expands this to include the conduct of other forms of alternative dispute resolution besides arbitration. While replying to the debate, Rijiju said this bill will help India emerge as an attractive destination for arbitration at the global level. "India is still not a hub for arbitration, while small countries and cities have emerged as major centres for arbitration," Rijiju said while speaking on the Bill in the House. Outlining Modi government's steps, he said that India would emerge as an Arbitration centre in coming years."

'CHANGE LAWS TO STOP RELEASE OF RAPISTS'

Against the backdrop of the Bilkis Bano case of the 2002 Gujarat riots, BSP member in Lok Sabha Danish Ali on Wednesday demanded that the Centre bring changes in the law to stop the release of convicts in rape cases under the remission policy of the states. Raising the issue during the Zero Hour, he claimed the country is witnessing a rise in the number of rape cases and those committing such crimes are getting emboldened by the remission policy of the states. "The reason behind it is that they do not get punishment. If punishment is handed down to someone in a case, the state government releases them under remission policy," Ali said. "Recently such a case came to fore in Gujarat. Convicts in the Bilkis Bano case were released on the grounds that their character was very good. They were welcomed when they came out of the prison," he said.

MORE GIRL CHILDREN BEING ADOPTED

"A child will not have to get adopted if there are more parents who are ready to do the procedure," Women and Child evelopment Minister Smriti Irani told the Rajya Sabha on Wednesday underlining that more girl children are being adopted in India in the last three years against boys. Replying to the supplementaries during question hour, the minister said the average time taken to adopt a child through court processes was so lengthy that a minimum of two years was needed by adoptive parents in terms of waiting and to reduce the time gap the ministry has proposed the amendment in the law, as in many cases it took up to 3.5 years. Irani said there are children who are older and are made available to NRI diaspora, OCI card holders.

SC agrees to hear plea on nullification of Art 370

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Wednesday agreed to consider listing of a case challenging the constitutionality of the abrogation of Article 370 of the Constitution which granted special status to the state of Jammu and Kashmir.

"We'll examine and give a date," a bench headed by CJI DY Chandrachud said. On September 23, former CJI UU Lalit had also agreed to consider listing the case after Dussehra break. Pursuant to taking note of the submissions of a counsel that the abrogation of the said article was an important constitutional issue, a bench led by CJI UU Lalit had said, "We'll certainly list that. All mentioning slips come before me. We'll certainly do that."

In the wake of amendments, several petitions were filed before the Supreme Court, praying that the presidential orders issued under Article 370, repealing the special status of the Jammu and Kashmir, and the J&K (Reorganisation) Act, 2019, be declared as unconstitutional. One of the pleas stated that it was "striking at the heart of the principles on which the state of J&K had integrated".

The hearing commenced on December 10, 2019 - four months after the repeal of the J&K special status - before a constitution bench comprising Justices N V Ramana (now retired), SK Kaul, R Subhash Reddy, B R Gavai and Surya Kant.

During the course of hearings, some of the petitioners sought for the reference of the matter to a 7-judge bench in light of the contrasting opinions expressed by two coordinate benches of the Supreme Court in the cases of Prem Nath Kaul and Sampath Prakash. Vide a judgement dated March 2, 2020 the Constitution Bench held that there was no need to refer the matter regarding the challenging to the presidential orders issued under Article 370 to a larger bench. Since then, there have been no signs of the listing of the pleas on Article 370. From the last week of March 2020, the SC went into a virtual lockdown, in view of the COVID-19, and only urgent matters were being taken up via video-conferencing.

Apex court seeks Centre's reply on same-sex marriage

The SC issued notice on two pleas seeking transfer of petitions pending in Delhi HC related to recognition of same-sex marriage. Considering senior advocate Menaka Guruswamy's submission, a bench of CJI DY Chandrachud and Justice PS Narasimha agreed to seek Centre's reply. The court also agreed to consider request of live streaming of the pleas. "Let the matter come up, then we will see," the CJI said.

'Irritating... don't keep mentioning it all the time': SC

THE SC on Wednesday reacted sternly to Bilkis Bano's request for setting up a new bench for hearing her writ challenging the release of 11 convicts who had walked free on August 15, 2022. The convicts had gang raped her when she was five months pregnant and murdered seven members of her family during Godhra riots.

"Don't keep on mentioning this matter all the time. It's very irritating. Every day you mention the same matter. It will come up now sorry no," CJI DY Chandrachud remarked when Bano's lawyer advocate Shobha Gupta urged the bench to set up a new bench.

On Tuesday, SC Judge Bela M Trivedi had recused from considering her writ. When the plea came up for hearing, Justice Ajay Rastogi said, "We'd not like to hear." ENS

ED searches in B'luru, Pune, Noida over app scam

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Directorate of Enforcement (ED) carried out search operations under the provisions of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA), 2002, at various places in Bengaluru, Pune and Noida, in respect of investigation into misuse of Matrix Partners Fund (MPF) app and other related apps. During searches conducted on December 9, the ED froze Rs 51.11 crore held in merchant IDs and bank accounts of the entities who were behind the MPF app and other app-related scams.

The case is based on an FIR registered on November 26, 2021, in Mawlai Police Station, Shillong, Meghalaya, against entities/persons behind the MPF app. The MPF app was a "scam investment application" which promised very high returns, luring investors to invest in false expectation of high returns, the ED stated in an official release on Wednesday.

During investigation, it has emerged that a large number of companies were connected to this app, which ran many other apps related to investment scams, loans, games, betting, rummy etc. "The modus operandi of these entities is to register companies by using forged documents and making dummy directors, create mobile apps and then generate proceeds of crime by collecting money through various payment gateways by faking / misdeclaring the nature of business related to the apps," the central agency stated.

The ED added that these entities used to register themselves on various payment gateways, and then by using the pay-in and pay-out features of the payment gateways, they used to collect and disburse money to the public. Initially, people got good returns or rewards and invested more money. But after some time, when huge amounts of funds were collected, the people behind these apps deactivated them and disappeared with the ill-gotten money. These companies were also found to be operating from fake addresses".

C'garh House has highest share of women legislators

16 women legislators in 90-member Assembly, according to data

EJAZ KAISER @Raipur

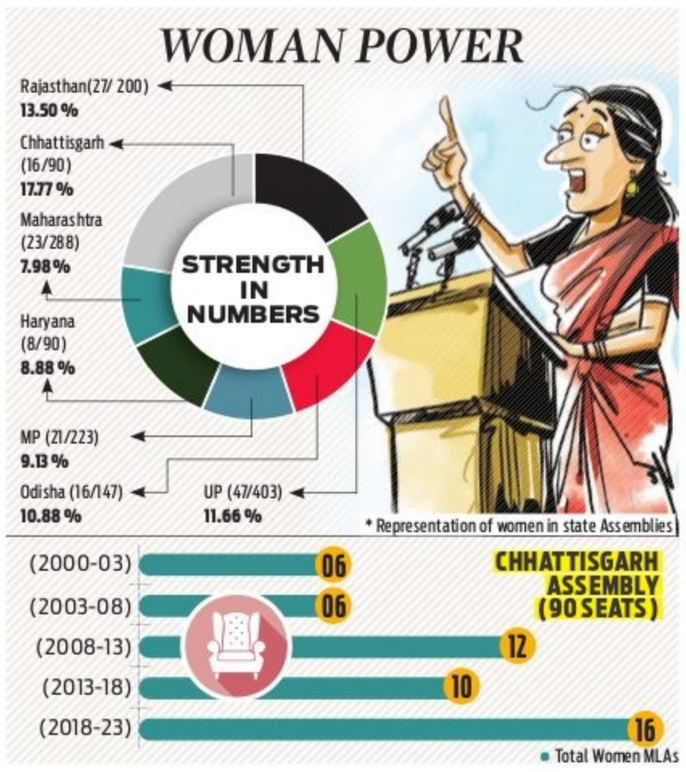
CHHATTISGARH Assembly has the highest percentage of women MLAs in the country, with the bye-elections having further increased their representation in the House.

In the five Assembly bypolls held in Chhattisgarh after the Congress came to power four years ago, the voters sent three more women legislators to the 90-member House, taking their figure up from 13 in 2018 elections to 16, making 17.7% of the total lawmakers in the state.

According to the latest data presented by Law and Justice Minister Kiren Rijiju in Lok Sabha, there are 19 state Assemblies having less than 10% women legislators, including Andhra Pradesh, Assam, Goa, Gujarat, Himachal Pradesh, Kerala, Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Manipur, Odisha, Sikkim, Tamil Nadu and Telangana.

In the recently-held Assembly polls in Himachal Pradesh, only one woman emerged winner while in Gujarat 8.2% of the elected lawmakers are women.

The overall average count of women MLAs in Assemblies across the nation makes for around 8%.



"The representation of women remains low. Political parties need to give serious thought to arrive at a consensus on the issue," political analyst Uchit Sharma said. "Enough delay has already happened to pass the women's reservation bill, which was introduced in Parliament in 1996, to politically empower women by reserving one-third seats in state Assemblies and Lok Sabha," he added.

She filed a petition in Jharkhand High Court challenging the judgment of the lower court. Incidentally, she was attacked hours before the case was listed for hearing in Jharkhand High Court.

The victim has sustained bullet injuries after being shot at by unidentified assailants and is currently undergoing treatment at a private hospital in Ranchi.

Those who have been named in the FIR include Danish Rizwan, Nazir, Sunil Badal, Niraj Sinha and Ajay Kacchap along with Natrajan. The FIR has been lodged by the victims brother.

Indian saints have always promoted global unity: Modi

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

INDIAN saints have strengthened the feeling of unity across the world, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said while participating in the inaugural function of Pramukh Swami Maharaj Shatabdi Mahotsav in Ahmedabad on Wednesday.

Addressing the gathering, Modi said, "Pramukh Swami took forward the legacy of the Vedas and Swami Vivekananda. Our saints empowered the spirit of Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam."

The PM added: "Go to any part of the world, and you will see the outcome of Pramukh Swami Maharaj Ji's vision. He ensured that our temples are modern and highlight our traditions. Greats like him and the Ramakrishna Mission redefined the sant parampara."

Recalling the days when he worked as a volunteer during the Machchhu dam disaster in 1979, Modi said, "Pramukh Swami Maharaj Ji was a reformist. He was special because he saw good in every person and encouraged them to focus on these strengths. I can never forget his efforts during the Machchhu dam disaster in Morbi."

He further recalled, "In 2002, when I was fighting the election from Rajkot, I got a pen from two saints saying that Pramukh Swami Maharaj Ji has requested you sign your papers using this pen. From there till Kashi, this practice has continued."

The event on Wednesday began with a religious and musical presentation, followed by a resolution ceremony in which Modi also participated. He then offered prayers to the 30-feet tall idol of Pramukh Swami Maharaj, and the Akshardham temple.

The month-long festival will be held at a 600-acre venue, the land for which was offered by over 250 farmers and builders.

MP minister sees red at Deepika wearing saffron bikini in movie with SRK

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bhopal

MORE than a month before its release, the Shah Rukh Khan-Deepika Padukone starrer much awaited Bollywood film, 'Pathaan,' has landed into trouble in BJP-ruled Madhya Pradesh, due to the saffron coloured costume worn by the film's lead lady in the song, Besharam Rang.'

Peeved over Deepika Padukone wearing a saffron coloured bikini towards the end of the song (first track of the 2023 movie) whose video was released recently, the MP's Home, Jail and Law Minister Narottam Mishra said on Wednesday, "The costume used in the song is highly objectionable. The filming of the song in such a manner reveals a polluted mindset."

He further attacked Padukone, saying, "It's well-known that Deepika Padukone has been a supporter of Tukde-Tukde Gang in the JNU episode in the past. I appeal to the makers of the upcoming movie to rectify or remove the objectionable scene and costume from the song, failing which the film may not be allowed to be screened in MP."

The multi-starrer thriller movie, which will see Shah Rukh Khan essaying an undercover RAW agent's role, is set to be released across the country on January 25, 2023.

But it was not only the MP home minister who took strong exception to the use of saffron costume in the song, as even the Leader of Opposition (LoP) in the state and senior Congress MLA Dr Govind Singh objected to it. "Since the song is titled 'Besharam Rang,' does that mean that saffron colour is shameless? The objectionable scenes in the concerned song should be banned or deleted at the earliest."

The MP Congress's media wing vice-president Bhupendra Gupta mocked the MP home minister on the issue. "We appeal to the MP CM to propose the state's home minister's name for being included in the Censor Board, to ensure that he can keep a watchful eye on script, scenes and costumes in movies, before their release."

Mukhtar held, sent to 10-day ED custody

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

THE Enforcement Directorate (ED) on Wednesday arrested jailed gangster-turned-politician Mukhtar Ansari in connection with a money laundering case in which his son Abbas Ansari and brother-in-law Atif Raza alias Sharzeel are already in judicial remand.

After the arrest, the former was produced in a district court of Prayagraj which remanded Ansari to 10-day to ED custody.

As per sources, the probe agency would grill Ansari over his undeclared assets, especially the properties. His statement will be matched with the statement of his jailed son and brother-in-law in the case.

Ansari, a five-time former MLA, was lodged in a jail at Banda in connection with multiple criminal cases. Ansari, 59, was questioned by the ED in connection with the same case last year. The same year, the ED had issued a lookout circular against his wife Afsan Ansari in connection with the same case, despite several summons which she did not appear before the ED.

'No coercive action': HC reprieve for CBI in Bogtui case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

HOURS after the CID, West Bengal was ordered to probe into the death of the prime accused in Birbhum's Bogtui massacre in CBI's custody, the Calcutta High Court on Wednesday directed not to take any coercive action against the officers of the central agency. In Birbhum's Bogtui massacre eight women and two children were charred to death. The court passed the order while hearing a petition seeking rejection of the probe by the CID.

Lalan Sheikh (50) was found hanging in the toilet of a guest house in Rampurhat where the CBI set up a camp office. Preliminary post-mortem report said the injuries on the throat of the deceased were anti-mortem in nature. After facing a large-scale demonstration by the villagers of Bogtui, the CBI shut down the camp office on Wednesday.

A murder case against the CBI was registered on the basis of the complaint lodged by Lalan's family members and the CID was handed over the charge of investigation.

On March 21, four houses were set ablaze in Bogtui which was said to be a revenge of murder of local deputy chief of a Trinamool Congress-dominated gram panchayat Bhadu Sheikh. Preliminary investigation revealed the massacre was a result of rivalry between two factions within the TMC over the issue of collecting money from illegal sand mining.

Lalan was arrested on December 4. The CBI was handed over the probe by the Calcutta HC and the CBI had arrested 21 accused.

5 cops, doc booked over bizman's death in UP police station

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

IN a case of custodial death of a 27-year-old businessman, five police personnel along with a doctor of the district hospital were booked, while 11 policemen, including station officers of two police stations, were suspended on charges of negligence after the victim's kin alleged that the deceased was tortured by the police in Kanpur Dehat late on Monday night. The death was reported on Tuesday morning.

Meanwhile, the autopsy report of the victim, on Wednesday, corroborated the charges of his family against the cops after it was found that the body had 24-25 injury marks, indicating brutality in police custody. The Kanpur Dehat SP, initially, tried to hush up the case by claiming that the victim died of a medical condition. However, Kanpur Dehat District Magistrate Neha Jain ordered a magisterial inquiry into the death, and SP Suniti formed a special investigation team to probe the role of cops in the case. No arrest has been made so far.

Ppolice sources say, victim Balwant Singh, a resident of Lalpur Saraiyya, was picked up by the Kanpur Dehat police for questioning on Monday evening in a robbery case wherein another businessman and Balwant's relative Chandra Bhan Singh was robbed of ₹4.5 lakh under Shivli police station area by some unidentified miscreants on December 6.

The FIR lodged at the Rania police station named the SHOs of Shivli and Rania police stations. The district hospital doctor Dr Pawan Parya has also been booked.

Nitish loses cool in Assembly over BJP's outcry on hooch tragedy in Saran

RAMASHANKAR @Patna

WITH the Bihar hooch tragedy toll rising past 20 on Wednesday, the Assembly witnessed noisy scenes with the BJP accusing Chief Minister Nitish Kumar of failing to enforce prohibition and an irate Nitish sniping at the Opposition for creating ruckus in the House. "You all had supported prohibition. What happened now? You are talking about spurious liquor?" he shouted at the BJP MLAs, accusing them of being drunk.

Nitish lost his cool after the BJP MLAs raised Tuesday's hooch tragedy in Saran district in the House on the second day of the Winter session, holding the CM responsible for the deaths. The MLAs also demanded compensation for the family members of those who lost their lives in the hooch tragedy.

Amid pandemonium in the House, Nitish got enraged and asked them to become calm, addressing them 'tum' (used when calling somebody younger or junior).

However, Nitish's outburst further angered the BJP MLAs, who demanded an apology from him. The BJP members, then, trooped into the Well, raising anti-Nitish slogans.

The uproar continued in the post-lunch session as well, forcing Speaker Awadh Bihari Choudhary to adjourn the House for the day.

Taking the protest outside the House, Opposition leader Vijay Kumar Sinha told media persons that his party was in favour of prohibition but wanted discussion on the hooch tragedy deaths. "The CM provoked us," he added.

Father of Ankita murder accused booked for trying to sodomise help

NARENDRA SETHI @Dehradun

FORMER minister and expelled BJP leader Vinod Arya, the father of Pulkit Arya who is the prime accused in the Ankita murder case, has been accused of trying to have unnatural sex with one of his domestic helps.

In a complaint lodged at the Jwalapur (Haridwar) police, Vinod Arya was also accused of hatching the plan of a recent road accident in which the helper suffered injuries on the head and hand. An FIR was registered by the police following this. The expelled BJP leader used to call the helper at night, asking him to massage and press his legs, during which Vinod Arya made obscene acts and attempted to sexually abuse them, the helper said in the complaint.

In the road accident, three men on a motorcycle hit the motorbike in which the helper was travelling, they claimed. The complainant also suspected Vinod Arya of hatching the plan for the accident with the intention of murdering the helper.

Senior Superintendent of Police Ajay Singh told this reporter, "A case has been registered on the complaint of the helper. Instructions have been given that the entire matter should be thoroughly investigated."

When contacted, Vinod Arya said he was not aware of any FIR being lodged against him. Asked if his helper had filed a case against him, the former said he was 67 and was not in a position to commit such an act. He alleged that the helper has been blackmailing him.

Forest dept demolishes 15 'illegal' mazars on U'khand govt land

DEHRADUN: Uttarakhand forest officials have demolished 15 mazars (Islamic mausoleums) built by encroaching forest land. Of the 17 mazars identified, 15 were demolished with bulldozers. The two mazars were exempted from demolition as their managers provided valid land documents. Confirming the action, Dehradun Forest Division DFO Nitish Mani Tripathi told this reporter, "After Dehradun, illegal religious places built by encroaching forests in other divisions will also be demolished. In the last few years, religious places cropping up on encroached government land has increased at a large scale," the DFO said. The Nainital High Court has also reprimanded the state government and the forest authorities in this regard. After this, the Pushkar Singh Dhami-led government took it seriously and instructed the forest headquarters to identify such encroachments and take action. Uttarakhand's Principal Chief Conservator of Forests Vinod Kumar Singhal confirmed that the state had already begun the exercise to identify all illegal religious structures in forest land.

Oppn MPs walk out for 2nd day over LAC clash

YESHI SELI & PREETHA NAIR @New Delhi

THE Opposition MPs again staged a walkout from both houses of Parliament on Wednesday over the government refusing a discussion on the India-China LAC face-off.

In the Lok Sabha, former Congress president Sonia Gandhi and party leader Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury led the walkout, alleging that the government has not been transparent about the situation at LAC. Speaking in the Rajya Sabha, Leader of Opposition Mallikarjun Kharge said though the Opposition submitted notices in the House demanding a discussion on the issue, the government has continued to refuse.

"We need to know the full details of the LAC situation. The Defence minister hasn't shared many things which we are privy to. We got information that bridges were being made at many places. We stand for the country and the Army," he said.

Wednesday's ruckus in Parliament comes as the US said it fully supports India's ongoing efforts to de-escalate the situation. The Pentagon, in a statement, said it is closely watching the developments along the India-China border.

"The Department of Defence continues to closely watch developments along the line of actual control, LAC. We have seen the People's Republic of China continue to amass forces and build military infrastructure along the LAC," Pentagon press secretary said.

"It does reflect the growing trend by the PRC to assert itself and to be provocative in areas directed towards US Allies and our partners in the Indo Pacific. We will continue to remain steadfast in our commitment to ensuring the security of our partners," the official said.

According to the Army officers, around 200 Chinese soldiers tried to transgress the LAC, but the Indian troops contested their attempts. "This face-off led to minor injuries to few personnel from both sides," an Army officer said.

No Christmas, New Year holiday for Kyiv as Moscow rules out ceasefire

Russia says no proposals received from Zelenskyy to halt fighting

MOSCOW

THE Kremlin said on Wednesday it had not received any proposals from Kyiv to halt fighting in Ukraine during the upcoming holiday period and a ceasefire was not on Moscow's agenda. "No, no proposals have been received from anyone and no topic of this kind is on the agenda," the Kremlin's spokesman Dmitry Peskov told reporters in response to a question on whether Russia would pause hostilities for the New Year or Christmas.

Christmas in Russia is celebrated on January 7, according to the Orthodox calendar, and public holidays in the country usually extend from New Year's Day until after Christmas.

In nearly 10 months of fighting, Russia has yet to fulfil any of its stated key goals in what it refers to as its 'special military operation' in Ukraine, including seizing the capital or the eastern Donbas region.

The Moscow-installed leader of Ukraine's Donetsk region on Wednesday however called for Russia to widen its goals and annex two more areas of Ukraine, the Black Sea region of Odessa and Chernigiv in the north. In response to that call, Peskov said that any decision to incorporate those areas would depend on 'the will of residents' there.

"The primary task is to protect people in the Lugansk People's Republic and the Donetsk People's Republic. Our military is concentrating on this," he said, referring to two regions that Russia claimed to have annexed in September. Meanwhile, the people of Ukraine and their representatives were handed the European Union's top human rights prize on Wednesday for their resistance to Russia's invasion and defiance during the ongoing war.

The 27-nation bloc awarded the "brave people of Ukraine" the prize in October.

Yulia Pajevska, founder of the medical evacuation unit Angels of Taira, human rights activist Oleksandra Matviichuk and Ivan Fedorov, mayor of the occupied city of Melitopol, were on hand to receive it during a solemn ceremony in Strasbourg, France.

"We have witnessed the inspiring resistance of ordinary citizens making the ultimate sacrifice to delay a column of tanks, senior citizens standing up to face down Russian troops with nothing but pride as their weapons." European Parliament President Roberta Metsola added further, "Brave women forced to give birth in underground metro stations." Agencies

'Impossible' to track, China won't report asymptomatic cases

BEIJING

CHINA said on Wednesday it would stop reporting asymptomatic Covid-19 cases since they've become 'impossible' to track with mass testing no longer required, another step in the country's uncertain exit from some of the world's strictest antivirus policies. So far, though, many of those newly sick are staying home and there has been little evidence of a surge in patient numbers.

But it's difficult to get a clear picture of the virus's spread, and the new reporting rules could make that even harder. Some hospitals have reportedly struggled to remain staffed because of rising infections among their employees.

A notice on the National Health Commission's website on Wednesday said it stopped publishing daily figures on Covid-19 cases where no symptoms are detected since it was "impossible to accurately grasp the actual number of asymptomatic infected persons," which have generally accounted for the vast majority of new infections.

Visitors wear masks at the children's hospital in Beijing on Wednesday | AP

The only numbers the commission is reporting are confirmed cases detected in public testing facilities where symptoms are displayed. Many people also test at home—and any positive results there would also not be captured.

China's government-supplied figures have not been independently verified and questions have been raised about whether the ruling Communist Party has sought to minimize numbers of cases and deaths.

Since Tuesday, the US consulates in the northeastern Chinese city of Shenyang and the central city of Wuhan have been offering only emergency services "in response to increased number of Covid-19 cases," the State Department said. While many governments have long focused on only the more serious cases, the latest move is part of a sea change for China, which has maintained a "zero Covid" policy that seeks to stamp out all virus transmission. AP

IMF says talks with Pak on review of $7 bn fund fruitful

ISLAMABAD

A top International Monetary Fund (IMF) official on Wednesday said talks with Pakistan on the ninth review of $7 billion fund had been 'productive' so far and the global money lender looked forward to continuing the discussions over policies that adequately address the rehabilitation needs from the floods while preserving fiscal and external sustainability.

Pakistan entered a $6 billion IMF programme during Imran Khan's government in 2019, which was hiked to $7 billion earlier this year. The programme's ninth review is currently pending with remote talks being held between IMF officials and the government for the release of $1.18 billion.

"Discussions to date in the context of the 9th review have been productive, and have enabled a revision to the macroeconomic outlook post floods as well as an in-depth evaluation of fiscal, monetary, exchange rate, and energy policies adopted since the completion of the combined seventh and eight reviews," IMF Resident Representative for Pakistan Esther Perez Ruiz was quoted as saying by Dawn.

She added that the IMF "looks forward to continue the dialogue over policies that adequately address the humanitarian and rehabilitation needs from the floods while also preserving fiscal and external sustainability given available financing".

Her remarks came a day after prime minister Shehbaz Sharif on Tuesday decried a 'callous IMF,' saying the global lender had put shackles on Pakistan because of which the government's efforts for rehabilitation of flood victims and providing relief to the masses had become a huge challenge. PTI

Taliban lashes 20 in public for theft, alleged adultery

ISLAMABAD

TWENTY people were lashed in public on Wednesday in Taliban-ruled Afghanistan as punishment for alleged adultery, theft, and other crimes, a provincial official said. Afghanistan's new authorities have set hardline policies since they took over the country in August 2021 that reflect their interpretation of Islamic law, or Sharia. Mohammad Qasim Riyaz, a Taliban-appointed spokesman for the governor's office in southern Helmand province, said the lashings took place at the sports stadium in Lashkar Gah, the capital of Helmand. Riyaz said each man was lashed between 35 to 39 times, and the punishments were carried out before provincial Taliban officials, religious clerics, elders and local people.

An unspecified number of those punished also received prison terms according to their crimes, Riyaz said. Wednesday's lashings in Helmand come a week after the Taliban authorities executed an Afghan convicted of killing another man, the first public execution.

The execution, carried out with an assault rifle by the victim's father, took place in western Farah province before hundreds of spectators and many top Taliban officials, according to Zabihullah Mujahid, the top government spokesman. AP

'Not allowing next-gen was wrong'

Murthy had earlier said no family member of a founder can ever come to work at Infosys

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

INFOSYS co-founder NR Narayana Murthy on Wednesday said he was completely wrong in keeping away the next generation of the promoter group out of the company.

Taking back his earlier view of keeping them away, Murthy said, "I was completely wrong in that. I was depriving this organisation of legitimate talent so I take back whatever I said. I think that every individual must have the same opportunity as every other individual, if he or she is considered the best person (for the job.)," he said. Murthy had earlier said that no family member of a founder can ever come to work at the company. Speaking at an event to celebrate 40 years of Infosys, he said, "So today, my view is that you should not worry about what nationality what heritage, whose son you are or whose daughter you are, as long as you have the best competence for a position. But you have to put in the proper process of maturing in the organisation before being given the suitable position or responsibility."

In 2017, the first non-founder CEO Vishal Sikka had to exit the company after disagreements with the founders. After Sikka's exit, Nilekani returned to lead the company.

Infosys non-executive chairman Nandan Nilekani said, "I think, we should not practice reverse discrimination as well." Murthy, who had left Infosys in 2014 , also thanked Nilekani and CEO Salil Parekh for reviving the company and accelerating growth for the last five years. Setting a long-term objective or goal for the next six decades, Murthy said that he wants the company to flourish for at least 100 years. "We have completed our tasks and right now it is in the hands of two extraordinary people that we are cheering them from the sidelines," he said. Murthy started Infosys in 1981 after borrowing ₹10,000 from his wife Sudha.

I can't come back at 75, there is no Plan B: Nilekani

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

INFOSYS non-executive Chairman Nandan Nilekani, who returned to the company in 2017 following Vishal Sikka's exit, on Wednesday said if he hands over to somebody and it doesn't work out, there is 'no Plan B'.

"I can't come back at 75 and there is no Plan B," Nilekani said. At Infosys40 celebrations on Wednesday, Nilekani said, "I will be handing over to a chairman, at whatever point I exit from scene, who will be a non-founder. Now, there is no plan B. In case you hand over to someone and it doesn't work out, there is no plan B."

He added that he does not think any of the other founders want to come back either, and that he has to make sure that when exits the scene, he wants to implement Murthy's vision of putting in place the leadership structure, and people with the right values to take it forward. "How do you create institutions that outlive you? How do you create institutions that cross generations? How do you create institutions that move from an ownership model to a professional model?," he questioned, adding, "it's not clear to me (referring to the succession plan). I have not found a person whom I can hand over."

> Nandan Nilekani, Infy co-founder

Talking about the relationship between the CEO and the Chairman, he said, "... the CEOs job is running, executing, managing, motivating people, and being very customer-focused. One of the things I like about Salil (CEO) is he will drop everything and catch a flight to Greenland if necessary, if he has to close a deal."

Nilekani also said they are practising 3 Rs- Relevance, Resilience and Responsiveness.

UN body rejects SpiceJet's 'safety processes in order and systems' claim

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

SPICEJET'S claim that the UN body conducted an exhaustive audit of the airline and its "operations, safety processes and systems have been found to be in order" has been rejected by the International Civil Aviation Organisation (ICAO).

ICAO is a specialised agency of the United Nations to promote safe and orderly development of international civil aviation around the world. SpiceJet earlier this month had said that it was the only scheduled Indian airline part of the audit conducted by ICAO under Universal Safety Oversight Audit Programme (USOAP) Continuous Monitoring Approach.

In a social media (Twitter) post titled "Clarifications regarding ICAO mission to India" on Tuesday, ICAO's communication officer William Raillant-Clark clarified that it visits various airlines when it conducts an audit of a country's aviation safety oversight system and that visits to operators are not audits or inspections at all. "ICAO's USOAP team performed an ICAO Coordinated Validation Mission (ICVM) to India from November 9-16, 2022. The objective of an ICVM is to validate progress in addressing the findings from previous USOAP activities," ICAO said in its clarification note.

"As part of an ICVM, ICAO teams conduct industry visits to verify the effectiveness of the civil aviation authority's safety oversight. This will include visits to multiple operators. ICAO wishes to clarify that visits to operators are not audits or inspections at all," the clarification note added.

When contacted, Spicejet did not say anything on ICAO's new claim. On December 5, SpiceJet had said the ICAO audit of India's aviation safety oversight mechanism last month has found their operations, safety processes and systems to be in order. Following this, SpiceJet share had gained over 6% on December 6 to close at ₹42.15 on BSE.

Mahindra & Mahindra to invest ₹10K cr in Pune to make electric vehicles

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

MAHINDRA & MAHINDRA'S (M&M) investment of ₹10,000 crore for electric vehicles (EVs) manufacturing has been approved under the Maharashtra government's industrial promotion scheme for EVs.

The Mumbai-based company via its subsidiary will make investments of nearly ₹10,000 crore over a period of seven-eight years for setting up the manufacturing facility, development and production of Mahindra's upcoming Born Electric Vehicles (BEVs).

The auto major was in talks with multiple states to set up its EV plant as it aims to have at least 30% of its total sales come from battery powered vehicles by 2027. Rajesh Jejurikar, Executive Director, Auto & Farm Sectors, M&M, said, "We are delighted with this approval from the Govt. of Maharashtra for setting up our EV Manufacturing Plant in Pune, and investing in what has been our 'home' state for over 70 years."

M&M, which had unveiled 5 e-SUVs on August 15, trails much behind Tata Motors in the EV space despite being an early entrant. It is now looking to make a strong comeback with XUV400, an electric SUV, which is likely to go on sale in January 2023 and a slew of EVs under its XUV.e and BE (born electric) range that will hit the market from 2024 onwards.

Like Tata Motors, M&M is also raising funds from top investment firms to realize its EV goals. In July, the automaker had raised ₹1,925 crore from British International Investment (BII) for a new four-wheel passenger EV company. It is also reported that M&M is in talk with other investment firms to raise up to $500 million for manufacturing EVs. Tata Motors, which at present has 85-90% market share in the electric car space, had last year raised Rs 7500 crore from US-based Private equity investor TPG Capital in its new EV subsidiary.

India imports 1,116 million tonnes of coal in past 5 years

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

INDIA imported nearly 1116.32 million tonnes of coal in past five years, said coal minister Pralhad Joshi on Wednesday.

This year, the total quantum of coal imported from January 2022 to September 2022 is 179.95 million tonnes. "As per the current import policy, coal is kept under Open General Licence (OGL) and consumers are free to import coal from the source of their choice as per their requirement and commercial consideration. The Government of India doesn't interfere in this matter," said Joshi in a written reply to Lok Sabha.

India has been facing a coal shortage, which led to power outages in many states during the peak of summer in the past two years. Therefore, to meet the coal demand, India had to increase its coal export. In 2022, the government assigned Coal India Limited (CIL) to import coal for blending purposes on behalf of thermal power plants (TPP) of state GENCOs and independent power plants (IPP). Coal India imported about 3.58 lakh tonnes of coal on behalf of TPPs of State GENCOs and IPPs after January, 2022.

Flash storage adoption by corps to rise: Pure Storage

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

A global cloud storage player Pure Storage believes that amid rising inflation and recession, corporations will move up the data digitisation to reduce the ownership cost and to strengthen their operations.

The transformation of India into a digital economy is taking place at an astonishing pace, accelerated by the pandemic, said Ramanujam Komanduri, managing director (India) of Pure Storage. The data storage company, with operations in Chennai, predicts that flash storage will be adopted more in the upcoming years. Advancements in flash storage such as quad-level cell and Direct Flash are lowering the cost and increasing density in flash to the point will force organisations to replace their legacy spinning disk storage with flash. The increasing scrutiny on environmental sustainability, the energy usage will persuade corporations to switch to flash storage, he said. The shift in investment in IT towards flexible consumption models such as subscription-based and pay-as-you-grow methods will accelerate in 2023. As per an IDC report, Pure grew 590.5% in third quarter, despite the industry's growth declining in the country.

Qatar FIFA WORLD CUP FINALS 2022

Messi mania outside stadium

DOHA: Nicolas Montez could tell from the roar coming from inside the Lusail Stadium that Lionel Messi had scored the opening goal. One of thousands of ticketless fans stood outside, the Argentinian said it would never have been so loud for anyone else. "If it was Croatia, there would have been silence. Everyone in there is for Messi," added the 29-year-old who wore the number 10 Messi shirt in Argentina's sky blue and white colours that is seen everywhere in Doha.

Argentina airline adds 2 flights for final

BUENOS AIRES: Argentina's national carrier scheduled two extra flights from Buenos Aires to Qatar to take soccer fans to the World Cup final. Both Aerolíneas Argentinas flights sold out quickly. The first one leaves from Argentina's capital on Friday morning, and tickets for that flight were gone within a half-hour of the national team's 3-0 victory over Croatia. Tickets for the second flight, which leaves Friday night, went on sale early Wednesday and were sold out within a couple of hours, the airline said in a statement.

We celebrated because it is exciting to be in the final, but there is still one step to go. This is something to enjoy but it's over now, so we need to move on to the next one.

CREATOR AND HIS CREATION

Messi's surreal run, dribble and pass for Alvarez's second goal had stamp of the past; Argentina storm into their sixth final

Driven by history and genius touch

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @Chennai

IT's 68 minutes 31 seconds on the clock. Argentina have a throw in in the middle third of the pitch. Lionel Messi and Julian Alvarez take up positions to receive it. Messi clearly instructs Alvarez to occupy Josko Gvardiol so that it gives Messi space to dribble if Alvarez does win the knockdown. When the throw in comes Alvarez's way, the move is already taking shape in Messi's mind.

The Manchester City forward wins the challenge and Messi is in business. While he doesn't possess the pace he once had, he still has the acceleration and motors past Gvardiol. Just when it looks like Messi is on the goal-side of the defender, the Croat has caught up.

Messi's first three touches enables him to make up some ground on Gvardiol but the 20-year-old, 15-years Messi's junior, makes up the lost ground. So far, this is textbook defending. It's reported that Gvardiol's value is north of 80 million pounds and you can see why. Keeping pace with Messi can be an arduous task but he also manages to show him on his outside.

Anyone who has seen Messi play will know his favoured move of cutting inside, dribbling in from the right half-space. Both Gvardiol and the covering defender, Dejan Lovren, have effectively shut that gap. The Argentine takes four more touches. He has the ball at the edge of the Croatian box but he's left with a choice.

He has the option of passing the ball back to one of the two Argentine bodies outside the D in central areas. There is also the more risky option of finding Alvarez who has kept pace with him. But the 22-year-old striker, high on confidence after scoring and winning the penalty earlier in the evening, has three Croatian bodies next to him.

So, Messi takes a third option. Having already turned to have his back to goal, he spins once again. Think of him as an Indian autorickshaw driver who has landed two back-to-back 180 degree executions with the vehicle in a narrow alleyway to the bemusement of both the passengers inside and the pedestrians outside. Here, Gvardiol, who's caught on his heels for a fraction of a second, is both the passengers and the pedestrians. But he recovers well to shift his entire body weight to try and limit the impending damage of a third Argentine goal.

The damage, though, is already done. The path Messi will take is already lit, with the red carpet visible. Gvardiol, who has been a silhouette since the move began, is not even a shadow as Messi has left him in his rearview mirror. It's to Gvardiol's credit that the only space available was on his outside. It's to Messi's credit that he finds that space in the first place. He dribbles a couple of more times near the byline before slipping the simplest of passes for Alvarez whose first-time effort gives him a second goal of the night. It's 68:46 on the clock.

Fifteen seconds is not a lot of time, for example it takes the average human roughly 10 seconds to type this sentence. For a genius like Messi, 15 seconds is more than enough to travel 80 metres with the ball, twist and turn multiple times, deceive one of the best young defenders before supplying the assist in the semifinal Argentina won 3-0.

This group has strength of character but is also so intelligent. We have a team that is capable of reading games, that knows how to suffer when they have to suffer. We have a great coaching staff who don't leave anything to chance. That helps because it means we always know what we need to do.

Lionel Messi

Messi has successfully attempted more complex skills in his career but what he did in Doha on Tuesday wasn't normal. This was 2010 Messi. This was Messi under Pep Guardiola. This was Messi in Camp Nou. This was Messi displaying his talents for the first time, when he was a right-winger, had long hair and used to treat opposition players like traffic cones in a training session. This was Messi in excelsis. This was, in effect, Messi paying homage to himself. A veteran conjurer reliving their first magic trick. The band from Ocean's XI getting together for an origin story. The 10 seconds or so really captures his genius, it explains why he's been sui generis for such a long time.

A few years ago, former Arsenal manager, Arsene Wenger, had made an observation about Messi. "If you love football, you love to watch Messi," he had said. Forget that. In Doha, Messi is playing his greatest hits to win around non-believers as well. That includes Real Madrid fan accounts.

At the same venue on Sunday, he will wear that famous sky blue for what is likely to be his last dance. He will try and go through his vast repertoire of skills in his tool box — a feint here, a shimmy there, maybe a slalom, a drop of the shoulder, a curling effort from outside the box, a jink in the box among others — in search of the one glory that has continued to elude him for all his adult life.

EMILIANO Martinez half-kneeled with his back to the Croatian box where Lionel Messi — who else? — stood behind the ball. The goalkeeper could not stand the tension, Messi could and so, it was that Argentina, against the run of play, took the lead in the 34th minute and a step toward a date with destiny, the World Cup final. Bedlam at the Lusail Stadium followed.

Croatia complained but, in truth, there was little to complain about. Goalkeeper Livakovic had bodychecked Alvarez and referee Daniele Orsato pointed to the spot. In an unfortunate turn of events, Luka Modric had been at the heart of Argentina's quick break, shipping possession.

It was cruel to the Europeans. For much of the opening thirty minutes, they were painting nice triangles in the midfield, a reflection of their dominance. It seemed Argentina were always second best. Midway through the first half Mateo Kovacic dispossessed the diminutive Messi, pivoted away, and launched a counter.

But then a single moment changed the entire dynamics of the match. Modric let the ball squirm from under his feet, Enzo Fernandez and Julian Alvarez sprinted away, got a penalty, and Messi, who had seemed peripheral with little bursts here and there converted the spot kick. There was pandemonium behind Martinez's goal where the Argentina supporters serenaded their team with the song 'Muchachos ahora nos volvimos a ilusionar' — Boys, the illusion is back. Perhaps this was more than simply an illusion. From the 2-1 opening defeat against Saudi Arabia to the dramatic penalty shootout victory against the Netherlands in the quarterfinals, Argentina had regrouped and here against Croatia victory was beginning to materialise. This Albiceleste team under Scaloni is sui generis. It is neither the Argentina of 2014 when Messi dragged his side to the final until emotion finally consumed the team in a heartbreaking defeat to Germany nor the 1990 side that rallied after the infamous opening-match defeat at the hands of Cameroon. The opening defeat against Saudi Arabia forced Argentina to rethink and reassess. Their backs were against the wall after all. Messi's last World Cup participation was Argentina's other great motivation. After Argentina's 2019 Copa America defeat, he became a leader for the side, morphing from the somewhat timid non-committal lodestar, always at a loss in the Argentina XI, to a fore-fighter and the centre of gravity in a high-flying team.

It rekindled Messi's joy, netting a brilliant goal against Mexico in the group stages and at times playing with the velocity and panache of his younger days. He is enjoying his time, chanting, singing and dancing with the Argentina fans and their twirling scarfs after each and every victory.

Against the Netherlands, Messi and Argentina channelled their dark side, but they demonstrated emotional balance. They shrugged off the Netherlands' late goals to batter Van Gaal's team in extra time and prevail on penalties. At times, during the tournament, it felt as if Argentina were always living on the edge, exhausting their emotions. How much more would they have to give in the next match?

But against a jaded Croatia, they were yet again composed and mature, with Julian Alvarez and Enzo Fernandez once against playing key roles in the set-up of Scaloni. Alvarez bulldozed his way through the Croatian defense with a mildly meandering run that seemed to confuse everyone in a dark blue shirt. He simply ran the ball into the net, a play right out of a school playground. Croatia, the team that simply wouldn't lose in this tournament, was on its knees, their resilience broken.

There was no coming back from this.

Worker dies after fall at stadium

DOHA: World Cup organisers said that an urgent investigation had been launched into the death of a Kenyan security guard who fell from an upper floor at the Lusail Stadium in Qatar. John Njau Kibue, 24, suffered critical injuries in the early hours of Saturday, hours after Argentina beat Netherlands. The death adds to the toll at World Cup stadiums since Qatar was awarded the meet in 2010.

NUGGETS & TRIVIA

In the 2010 World Cup, New Zealand did not lose a single match. They drew in all their matches. Interestingly, in all the games they played the score was tied at 1-1.

The country with the most losses in a World cup is Mexico. They have lost 25 different matches since the beginning of the World Cup.

1966, 1983

The original World Cup trophy which was stolen is called the Jules Rimet trophy. Named after FIFA President Jules Rimet who helped to start the tournament, the trophy was stolen twice — once in 1966 and then in 1983.

Croatia's 'golden generation' nears end

AP @ Doha

ARGENTINA were a step too far for a Croatia team that reached back-to-back World Cup semifinals and shocked Brazil along the way in Qatar.

Lionel Messi inspired Argentina to a 3-0 win at Lusail Stadium Tuesday and moved a step closer to lifting the one major trophy that has eluded him. But for Croatia playmaker Luka Modric, this was almost certainly his last chance of winning the World Cup. He was substituted late on and left the field to applause from both sets of fans, who paid tribute to one of soccer's greats.

Beaten finalists at the World Cup in Russia four years ago, Croatia weren't expected to go deep again this time around. Especially after drawing 0-0 with underdog Morocco in their first group game.

That result has aged well as the tournament has progressed and Morocco emerged as the first African nation to reach the semifinals of a World Cup.

Luka Modric (L) & Dejan Lovren have been vital for Croatia over the years

At the age of 37, Modric has likely played in his last World Cup, but he could still be around for the European Championships in 2024. Ivan Perisic and Dejan Lovren are both 33, and Andrej Kramaric, 31.

Centre back Josko Gvardiol has been one of the standout players of the World Cup and has been linked with a host of Europe's biggest clubs.

He was powerless to stop Messi's moment of magic in the buildup to Argentina's third goal, but he looks like he will be a key figure for his country going forward.

The third place playoff may seem like one of the most pointless games in soccer, but not for Croatia.

"Win the match and go back to Croatia with a medal," said Modric. "We need to leave everything to win the bronze medal and let our fans celebrate one more time."

Ex-England cricketer Flintoff hurt in accident

Former England cricketer Andrew 'Freddie' Flintoff has been hospitalised after an accident that occurred during filming for the BBC show 'Top Gear.' The 45-year-old TV presenter was involved in the accident on Tuesday at the show's test track at Dunsfold Aerodrome in Surrey. The BBC reported that Flintoff's injuries are not life-threatening.

PUJARA STANDS TALL AGAINST SPIN, AGAIN

India vice-captain holds the innings together with a 203-ball 90

GOMESH S @ Chennai

Cheteshwar Pujara helped India recover to 278/6 after early blows | AFP

WATCHING Cheteshwar Pujara go about his process every ball is a soothing experience. Check the handle for a perfect V-grip. Get back in shape again. Look down to place the bat in the perfect position between the feet. Look at the bowler. Tap. Tap. Have a small backlift. Press forward and go on the front-foot defence to meet the ball under the eye and close to the body (or any other shot he plays). Check the grip, again. Shadow practice. Adjust the helmet. Rinse. Repeat.

At some level, there is a sense of tranquillity. When he is in the middle, India seem like they are in control. For him, the opponent, bowler and conditions are all secondary. The first and, perhaps the most important thing for him, is that one particular delivery he is about to face and how best to react to it. And they start fresh all over again. It is not as easy as it sounds. Which is why, despite not scoring a Test century since January 2019, no Indian batter has faced more deliveries than Pujara. 3904 times in 51 innings to be precise.

On Wednesday, he did the same for 203 deliveries, accumulating 90 runs to put India in a position of control as they finished on 278/6 on Day 1 of the first Test against Bangladesh. From 48/3, he built partnerships, first with Rishabh Pant (46) and then with Shreyas Iyer (82 batting), to take the visitors to 261/5 before he fell to a sharp turner from Taijul Islam.

Much like every other innings of his, it did not come without struggle. He was scratchy early on, was dropped immediately after lunch — the other batters had their share of luck as well — but he did what he does best. He dug in before pouncing on any bad delivery that came his way. If one has to point out the key difference, it is the way he plays spin in comparison with his teammates.

After the golden generation retired (read 2012-13), no one has countered spin in the current team as well as Pujara has. If one has to look at numbers, since 2012, no Indian, except MS Dhoni (76), averages better than him (68.17) against spin (minimum 20 innings). And the key to it is that he does not do anything that is unnatural of him. He doesn't sweep or paddle. He waits until the bowler errs in line and length and cuts them off the square or rocks back and pulls them. Sometimes, he jumps out of the crease to flick the ball through mid-wicket from under the eye or drives down the ground. There is nothing fancy about any of it. But it is this method that has made him successful against spin. All his seven boundaries against spin came in the aforementioned fashion. Which is why it often takes a peach of a delivery for him to get out. Like the one that got him late in the evening from Taijul with the second new ball — pitched in middle and off, turned away to beat the outside edge and hit the off-stump. And it happened when he was on the brink of scoring his first century since January 2019.

While the wait for the milestone continues, Pujara is not worried about it. "I am really happy today and not bothered about not getting a three-figure mark. I have been batting well and if I carry on like this, it will come soon," he said after the day's play. It is likely that the team management aren't worried either.

Perry and Harris hand Australia graceful win

ENS @ Chennai

AUSTRALIA had lost Ashleigh Gardner. They were four down for 89 in the third T20I at CCI Braboure Stadium, Mumbai. Ellyse Perry was still in the middle, but after 11 overs, Indian bowlers were in control. And then came Grace Harris. The off-spinning all-rounder did a repeat of what she did in the opening game against India, smashing an 18-ball 41 to turn the tide.

Meanwhile, Perry, who did not even find a place in the XI at the CWG, went berserk hitting 75 runs in 47 balls. India did struck in the late overs to restrict the tourists to 172/8.

It is a total India would have take at the start of the day. After all, they had successfully tied the second T20I chasing formidable 188 taking the match to the Super Over, which they won only a couple of days ago.

On Wednesday, they lost in-form opener Smriti Mandhana, but Shafali Verma did the deeds with a 41-ball 52. When she got out, India sent in Devika Vaidya ahead of Richa Ghosh and Deepti Sharma, and lost the momentum skipper Harmanpreet Kaur was trying to build. Once Kaur was dismissed for 37 runs from 27 balls, the game was all but over. India finished with 151/7, thanks to Deepti Sharma's 17-ball 25, falling short by 21 runs in the end. Australia lead series 2-1.

Brief scores: Australia 172/8 in 20 ovs (Perry 72, Harris 41, Devika 2/22, Renuka 2/24, Anjali 2/34) bt India 151/7 in 20 ovs (Shafali 52; Brown 2/19, Gardner 2/21).

Arjun emulates dad Sachin's feat

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

ON December 11, 1988, batting maestro Sachin Tendulkar announced his arrival in the domestic circuit by slamming a century (100 not out) on his Ranji Trophy debut against Gujarat at the iconic Wankhede Stadium, Mumbai. Exactly 34 years and three days later, his son Arjun, emulated the feat, scoring 120 on his Ranji debut on Day 2 of Goa's Elite Group C match against Rajasthan in Porvorim on Wednesday.

23-year-old Arjun, who moved to Goa from Mumbai earlier this season in search of better opportunities, later claimed he didn't know the feat achieved by his father on debut and also preferred not to talk about it further. But he was confident that he always had that belief in his ability. "I didn't know (dad's achievement). I always had belief in my ability. I just knew that I just have to get set and once I am set I have to cash in on the start. I have to play the first hour out and then capitalise," Arjun told media persons after guiding Goa to a commanding total of 493/8 in 163.2 overs at stumps. Batting at No. 7, he along with double centurion Suyash Prabhudessai (212), put together 221 runs for the sixth wicket.

Primarily a left-arm fast medium pacer, Arjun came out late on the opening day. The moment he took the guard, he knew his job was to protect Suyash for the day. "Obviously, when I walked out to bat, I had to face most of the balls as Suyesh was batting on 80 odd runs & I needed to protect him."

The duo then saw off the Rajasthan pace attack comprising pacers Aniket Choudhary and Kamlesh Nagarkoti the next morning before sending the bowlers on a leather hunt. Even as the whole Goa team was cheering for Arjun when he reached the milestone, a member of the support staff was particularly pleased as he had seen the lows more than the highs of this young cricketer. Prashant Shetty, the coach of MIG Academy in Mumbai where Arjun started honing his skills at the age of nine, was a happy man. "Feeling very good as I have seen his bad days. He has shared those with me and today all past memories came flooding back. But he continued the hard work and today he got rewarded," Shetty, a batting and fielding coach with Goa, told this daily. He has also been Arjun's personal coach for the past three years. Sachin sought Shetty's opinion when a call was to be made to shift Arjun to Goa. The decision seems to be proving right. After contributing to the team's cause in the Syed Mushtaq Ali and Vijay Hazare Trophy as a bowler, Arjun has proved his mettle with the willow. Credit also goes to Shetty & appropriately Sachin congratulated him as well.

With Christmas right around the corner, the city is gearing up for cultural celebrations with cinema and performance art

TUNIR BISWAS

CHRISTMAS has always been a celebration of wholesome festivities. The celebratory events don't just deal with the more traditional aspects of the holiday, but has taken a huge space in the cultural landscape as well: from Christmas films, plays to music albums. With the big day right around the corner, Bengaluru is gearing up for the celebration in the cinematic space. From public screenings to private viewing, the city has ample opportunities for its cinephiles to enjoy the occasion.

Sunset Cinema Club, which started operating in Bengaluru from 2018, has already scheduled screenings of Christmas-centred films across the city. "We will be screening two films at The Courtyard on the same day (December 25). The films are Home Alone (1990) and The Holiday (2006). Other than that, we will be screening Serendipity (2001) and Love Actually (2003)," shares Nikhil J Menon, city manager (Bengaluru) of Sunset Cinema Club, about the films that will be screened at Hightide Restobar, Bannerghatta Road.

While Sunset Cinema Club will be screening some iconic films from the last three decades, the Bangalore Film Forum (BFF), located in Jayanagar, prefers a touch from the golden age of Hollywood. They are looking forward to the screening of It's a Wonderful Life (1946), which is loosely based on Charles Dickens' 1843 novella titled A Christmas Carol. "We usually focus on films that have slipped from the radar of the mainstream. We focus on foreign films and classic films from the '40s, '50s and '60s, films people are not used to watching anymore. For Christmas this year, we decided to screen It's a Wonderful Life by Frank Capra on December 24 at 6pm in our space. We decided to do it on Christmas Eve as the events of the film happen during that day," says Vinayak Bhat, founder of BFF.

Adding to the buzz, Sahithya Sreenath, co-founder of the Binge Club in HSR Layout, notices that the demand for Christmas films have increased in recent days. "The Binge Club doesn't organise screenings of films, we leave that to the audience. Instead, we focus on orchestrating a heightened cinematic experience for them, so they can watch the movie of their choice like they would in a high-quality theatre. We have the technology to provide that experience, which includes a 135 inch screen with a full HD projector. As the audience usually picks the film, we have noticed that recently, many of the classic Christmas films have been added to the mix," says Sreenath.

Outside of the silver screen, the holiday season has left its mark on the theatre world as well, especially children's theatre. "We did a puppet show for Christmas last week that was entirely ideated and executed by children (aged 10 years and above). We had to do it early as none of the children will be there during the winter vacation. They were from the six month long theatre workshop that we do. At the end of the course, they created an original story about Christmas, made their own puppets and performed," concludes Arjun Kabbina, artistic director of the Bangalore Theatre Company.

Popular writer and columnist Shobhaa De gets candid about the success of Vodka & No Tonic, a theatrical adaptation of her short story collection, and her career as a wordsmith

'The barrage of criticism is noiseless to my ears'

DESE GOWDA

STORIES that explore the fragility of human relationships while being stuck between four walls during the Covid lockdown will come alive in the play Vodka & No Tonic at Ranga Shankara this weekend. A first-person perspective of five characters, the humorous stories shed light on how difficult situations can alter or even break relationships. Directed by and featuring veteran theatreperson Lillete Dubey, the play is an adaptation of the popular collection of short stories Lockdown Liaisons by novelist-columnist Shobhaa De.

"Lockdown Liaisons was written and published during the pandemic. This was the entire objective. I did not want to look back at an unprecedented, cataclysmic time in the world's history once the horror was behind us. I wanted to record it as the tragedy played out, so I wrote a series of short stories in first person about various anxieties and fears that people went through," explains De. For the theatrical production, a set of five stories out of 26 will be staged.

Seventy-four-year-old De feels she chose to write these stories as these issues are common to everyone who lived through the pandemic. "These stories are not just about what happened during the pandemic, but they are stories of human vulnerability, fear, insecurity and frustration," she shares, adding that the stories were relatively easy to adapt to the stage since they were all written as monologues. "Hearing words you have written being spoken and enacted is, in a way, a new experience for me."

Lillete Dubey in Vodka & No Tonic

> No writer in the world can sustain a long career based on controversy. I write and say what I believe in. Controversy per se does not faze me – never has
> Shobhaa De, novelist-columnist

Having been in the limelight for more than four decades, De never felt compelled to alter her writing style or be less vocal about sensitive subjects. "I remain true to myself. I do not write for critics. I write what I want to share – the decision to read or not read remains with the readers. The barrage of criticism is noiseless to my ears. That is how it has always been. I neither pander nor cater. This is my voice. This is my work. I am proud of both. Since I have been writing professionally for 50 uninterrupted years in mainstream media and across platforms, it is safe to assume my words and thoughts resonate with readers spanning three generations," she says.

De's repertoire has been vast, but her writings on subjects considered taboo such as sex and desires have often overshadowed her other works. How does she respond to critics who accuse her of intentionally writing about controversial subjects to remain in the spotlight? "No writer in the world can sustain a long career based on controversy. I write and say what I believe in. Controversy per se does not faze me - never has. I find 'safe' very boring. A writer's job is to provoke – not soothe," she shares, adding that she is inherently curious about what makes people tick, but society seems to be largely preoccupied with 'all things sexual'.

Somewhat miffed that I have such a generic face, it gets lifted for all kinds of random advertisements". Publisher Karthika VK replied to the tweet, "Hilarious. Also, suable?" to which most of us would agree.

SALABHASANA VARIATION

(LOCUST POSE VARIATION ON ELEG & ARM ON FLOOR)

It is a beginner level prone variation of Salabhasana (Locust Pose Variation). This is an assymetrical, gradual back strengthening pose. The alternate leg and arms stretch help to stretch the psoas of the torso and the lower legs effectively.

STEPS

- Align on the mat in a prone position, i.e. Advasana (Reverse Corpse Pose).
- Stay in the pose for 4-5 breaths. Keep the body relaxed and prepare the mind for the flow.
- After that, inhale and lift the torso.
- Raise the right leg and the left arm.
- Make sure that you keep the arm and leg extended and not bent.
- Now, engage the neck and head. Exhale.
- Look ahead and keep breathing. Stay in the pose for two breaths.
- Exhale and release the pose.
- Then, realign to Advasana. Stay for two breaths here.
- Moving the practice to the other side, inhale and lift the torso again.
- Simultaneously lift the left leg and the right arm and extend them.
- Release and relax in Makarasana (Crocodile Pose).
- Repeat the pose again after a couple of breaths.

LIMITATIONS

If you suffer from back pain, consult a yoga teacher before you practising this asana.

If you have stomach ulcer, colitis, hernia or lumbar spondylosis, headaches or cramps in the legs avoid this. Pregnant women should not do this yoga pose.

BENEFITS

- Stretches and strengthens the muscles of chest, shoulders, neck, arms, legs, abdomen and lower back.
- Helps to tone the abdomen and lower back.
- Massages spine and keeps the back supple.
- Improves blood circulation in the entire body.
- This also works at the mind level – when you take off, you can't think about any problem.
- An excellent pose for the abs and stomach.
- It firms thighs, hips and buttocks by dissolving excess fat.
- Regular practice can help control diabetes.
- People suffering from constipation should practise this pose for relief.
- Women with ovaries and uterus disorders can benefit from this pose.
- Strengthens lower back muscles.

DR RUBINA SHANAWAZ Z

THE urinary bladder is an elastic organ, which stores and empties urine. Paying attention to building healthy bladder habits can go a long way in preventing long-term bladder disturbances. Here are eight habits which will aid you in taking care of your bladder.

1 Timed emptying of the bladder: Caught in the nitty-gritty of daily life, we tend to avoid using the toilet until absolutely necessary. But conscious emptying of the bladder once in two-three hours avoids over distending it and precipitating retention of urine in the long run.

2 Do not delay the urge to urinate: Holding off urinating occasionally while travelling is alright but regularly delaying relieving yourself can lead to disturbed urination patterns and urinary infections.

3 Relax while passing urine: This applies to both mentally and physically. If you try to pass urine in a rush and head out, you most likely will retain urine, which might lead to urinary infections. Physical relaxation applies to being comfortably seated and relaxing the pelvic floor muscles, so as to aid in complete emptying of the bladder.

4 Drink enough fluids: Make sure you are hydrating yourself with 10-12 glasses /2 ½ - 3 litres of fluids a day. Remember soups, juices are also counted as fluids as focussing only on water for fluid intake becomes difficult for most people.

5 Avoid caffeinated drinks: Increased consumption of caffeinated beverages such as tea, coffee and cola leads to an increased frequency of urination.

> Here are 8 ways women can develop healthy bladder control habits

6 Stop smoking: Smoking leads to vasoconstriction, placing you at an increased risk of urinary urgency due to bladder irritation.

7 Practice Kegel's exercises: Pelvic floor exercises or Kegel's exercises is where you mimic stopping urine midstream (though the actual exercise needs to be done on an empty bladder) and hold for 3-5 counts and then relax for 3-5 counts. This is repeated for 10-15 times, twice a day to strengthen the pelvic floor that supports the urinary bladder. Regular practice of this exercise will go a long way in preventing urinary leaks .

8 Avoid triggers which increase intra-abdominal pressure: Being overweight, chronic cough and chronic constipation exert increases pressure on the pelvic floor leading to laxity of the supporting muscle and urine leak.

Maintaining a healthy weight and avoiding chronic cough and constipation will ease the pressure on the pelvic floor.

Shedding light on stuttering

Audiologist and speech therapist Lakshmipriya Sampath gives a lowdown on stuttering, symptoms and treatment

DIYA MARIA GEORGE

STUTTERING the juggling syllables that make no sense and taking long unintentional pauses which lead to watchful stares — a person with the condition of stuttering has to go through several such moments of discomfort on a daily basis. Even though this common speech problem has no underlying cause for its origin, Lakshmipriya Sampath, audiologist and speech therapist, Gleneagles Global Health City, Chennai, explains that the condition can aggravate due to many factors like stress and anxiety. She says, "Stuttering is considered as a fluency disorder. There are different dimensions based on which speech is said to be fluent. These include punctuation, pronouncing the words for a meaningful language, stress given to the words while speaking, variation of tone, pitch and volume. Any disruptions in these can result in an inability to communicate and thus stammering or stuttering." Here is an expert analysis of the condition, the symptoms, the types in adults and children, and treatment.

Symptoms

The symptoms can be observed through the core and secondary behaviours in stuttering.

Core behaviours

Repetition: People repeat sounds, syllables and the whole word. For example, if the child wants to say water, they might stammer and keep repeating the sound 'wa'.

Prolongation: Along with repetition, prolongation can also occur, for example, they will stress on the initial syllable.

Interjection: There will be a block of speech. After speaking a few words, they will pause and take some time to start again.

Secondary behaviours

Rapid blinks, tremors of lips, facial tics, hand movements, head jerks, clenching fists.

Stuttering in children

In children, stuttering behaviours can be observed in the developmental stage, that is from 18 months of age.

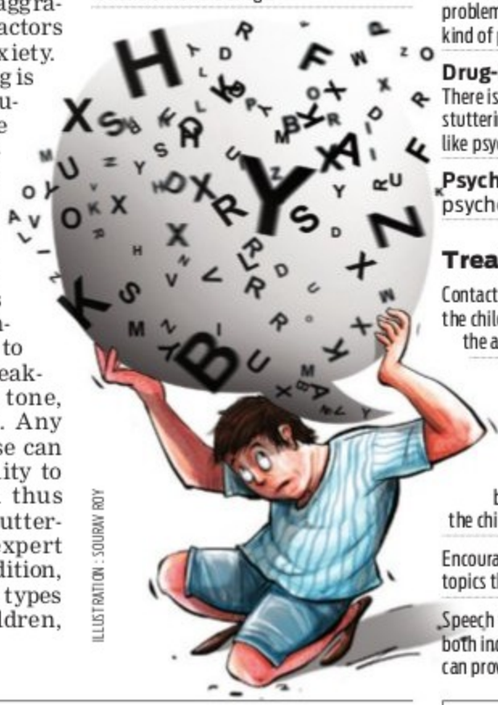

ILLUSTRATION : SOURAV ROY

If the stuttering is experienced for a shorter period of time and the severity is very less then, it is normal non-fluency.

If the child continues to have that stuttering-like behaviour for a longer period of time along with the emotional reactions like anxiety and frustration, then it will lead to stuttering.

Reasons for stuttering in children

Language difficulty, if the child has not yet developed the full language skills.

High expectations and negative reactions of parents. Children might get a sense of frustration and failure when they try to speak something.

A family history of the condition.

Stuttering in adults

Stuttering in children is called developmental stuttering while in adults, it is called acquired stuttering. The different types of stuttering in adults include

Neurogenic stuttering: Speech problems after any head injury or stroke kind of problems.

Drug-induced stuttering: There is a high possibility of getting stuttering after taking certain medications like psychotic drugs.

Psychogenic stuttering: Due to psychological issues like stress.

Treatment

Contact a speech-language pathologist if the child doesn't speak at least one word by the age of one.

In the case of children, we also have to create an environment where the child feels relaxed and confident about talking. There should not be any negative reactions for the child's attempt to speak.

Encourage the child to talk more about easy topics that interest them

Speech therapy and counselling sessions, both individual and one to one interactions, can provide the cure for adults.

More vitamin D in brain tissue facilitates better cognitive functions: Study

A team of US researchers has completed the first study examining levels of vitamin D in brain tissue, specifically in adults who suffered from varying rates of cognitive decline. Researchers at Tufts University found that members of this group with higher levels of vitamin D in their brains had better cognitive function. The study, published in Alzheimer's & Dementia: The Journal of the Alzheimer's Association, is the first to examine vitamin D levels in brain tissue and can help scientists further understand dementia and its causes. An estimated 55 million people worldwide live with dementia, a number that's expected to rise as the global population ages. –IANS

Long-term mask wearing could hamper cognitive performance

Wearing a face mask can temporarily disrupt decision-making in some situations, hampering cognitive performance in certain sports, and professions like language interpreters, performers, waiters and teachers, a new study has revealed. The University of Queensland (UQ) research, published in Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, analysed almost three million chess moves played by more than 8,000 people in 18 countries before and during the pandemic. It found wearing a mask substantially reduced the average quality of player decisions. –IANS

BOXING IS LIKE MEDITATION: VINAY RAJKUMAR

The actor in his conversation with City Express talks about his upcoming film 10 and his experimentations with roles

Vinay Rajkumar

Ego, fame, and overconfidence are the reason for downfall, and one should take things in life as it comes. That's the bottom line of 10

– Vinay Rajkumar, actor

A SHARADHAA

THE year 2022 will end on a good note for actor Vinay Rajkumar, as his film, 10 directed by Karm Chawla, and backed by Pushkar Films is releasing this week. "When you have invested one year of your time, thoughts, and efforts on a project, the release is meant to excite you. Even though it was delayed due to the pandemic, it is finally ready for the audience," says Vinay.

Vinay Rajkumar got introduced to the industry with Siddharth directed by Prakash Jayaram. The film featured him as a college boy, in his next two films Run Anthony and Ananthu v/s Nushrath he experimented with unique characters. His experimentations will continue with 10 and his next projects Pepe and Andonditu Kaala as well. "I don't plan for it, but fortunately the films have given me roles that allow me to be experimental," says Vinay, who goes on to share his experience working in Karm Chawla's sports drama," When the director first spoke to me about this subject, I took a month to analyze whether I can pull off this role as a boxer. I even joined a fight club to understand the basics of the game, and only after that, I gave my confirmation to the director. I then underwent a 6-month training in boxing, and my efforts paid off."

Today, boxing has become a part of Vinay's exercise routine and considers it to be a huge motivation. "If not for 10, I wouldn't have been able to get trained in Boxing, and it has given me a whole new perspective about the game, and about my physical fitness. I never knew I had so much energy. Boxing is considered too violent, but once you get trained, it is actually like meditation. When you are inside the ring, you are fully present, and focused," he says.

Talking in particular about the film, 10, and his role, Vinay says "The plot of the film is intense and filled with deep emotions involving limited characters. One tends to forget the main intent when one begins something and gets carried away. Ego, fame, and overconfidence are the reason for downfall, and one should take things in life as it comes. That's the bottom line of 10. It also stresses the importance of work-life balance, and relationships," he says.

'I AM AN ACTOR, AND NOT A HERO'

... says Yash Shetty, who enjoys playing an antagonist, and talks about playing one in Once Upon a Time in Jamaligudda

CE FEATURES

YASH Shetty enjoys portraying characters in contrast to his real-life personality. A soft-spoken person in nature, Yash rose to fame after his performance as Aghora in Jwalantham. He has since played mostly negative roles in over 30-films.

At the same time, he is known for his supporting acts in films like Soojidaara, and Dharani Mandala Madyadolage. "My liking towards negative roles began when I studied at the National School of Drama. While performing in plays, I felt that, unlike positive characters, negative roles enable you to bring out a variety of emotions," says Yash Shetty, who is a big fan of versatile actors like Vajramuni and Prakash Raj. "Career-wise, I follow Prakash Raj. He is a classic example of an actor who is famous for not just playing a villain, but a doting family member and friend too. He can fit in any role, and in my mind, I am more an actor and not a hero, which allows me to be versatile."

Yash will be yet again seen in a negative shade in the upcoming Dhananjay-starrer Once Upon a Time in Jamaligudda, which is directed by Kushal Gowda. According to Yash, the makers who wanted a weird look and behaviour for the negative character had blocked one of his eyes with the white lens, and the actor shot all his portions with just one eye open. "These are the kind of challenges we get when we play a negative role. People will fall in love with my character in Jamaligudda," says Yash.

According to the actor, there are only a few filmmakers who give equal importance to sketching a proper arc for the antagonist. "The directors of my upcoming films like Jamaligudda, Gowli, Dhairyam Sarvatra Sadhanam, and Ashoka Blade provided me with scripts two months ahead of the shoot. This allowed me to work on my character. However, there are times when I just go on the sets, do just stunts for 12-odd days, and come back home. I'm just glad that we will never have a dearth of negative characters, and we can choose to prioritise what works best for us," signs off Yash.
